Southwest and Northwest
Ford Bids Real Money
Rough Abroad, Smooth Here
First Prize for Casting
Current Events

By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1924, Star Co.

AN EL PASO bank closes its doors, in the Southwest, that should know only prosperity. The other day an important bank in the Northwest was in trouble and only saved by merging with another bank.

Farmers can't make a living, and while everything is done for railroads and other corporations, to make sure that their stockholders get dividends, nothing is done for farmers except to give them fatherly advice.

SOMETHING better must be done before long or there will be trouble in more banks, and trouble in two old political parties. They have done nothing in many years for anybody except politicians and corporations.

HENRY FORD bid real money for Muscle Shoals, agreed to manufacture fertilizers, and the farmers know that he would manufacture them.

Many other concerns are now bidding, but not real money. One bid offers one hundred and twenty million dollars, and reminds you of the conversation between Messrs. Weber and Fields, burlesque actors, in the old days.

"I'd give $5,000 for that dog," says one.

"But, Mike, we ain't got $5,000," says the other.

"I know it, but ain't it a good offer?"

Ford offered to pay the Government 215 millions, during the period of his lease, and he has the money.

THEY DO THINGS roughly in other countries. In Russia forty-two men are accused of giving and taking bribes. If convicted they will all be executed. In Hong Kong yesterday thirty-eight Chinese were shot to death. They had run away with the steam launch Kwongtak.

WE ARE more gentle here. Men steal a naval reserve or take a few hundred millions out of a government ship-building or airplane enterprise, but they are not shot to death. They go to Palm Beach, or to Paris. And their lawyers say, with hearty approval of many newspapers, that it is outrageous to make a fuss about such things, and do so much investigating.

THE RECORD for casting a fishhook goes to Fred C. Berger, who heaved his line with a four-ounce sinker more than 495 feet. That's interesting, but

J. S. LAMONT DESTROYED RECORDS

President of G. F. Redmond & Co., in Court, Admits His Act

James S. Lamont, president of G. F. Redmond & Co., Inc., closed brokerage house, destroyed six books of records of the concern, he admitted today at a bankruptcy hearing in the federal building.

He declared that the six record books destroyed at his Natick home immediately after the Redmond office was seized by federal authorities included four ledgers and two "in and out" books.

J. S. Lamont.

Lamont was taken to the Federal Building today from the East Cambridge jail, where he was committed two weeks ago for contempt of court in failing to turn over $10,000 in bonds and certain records of the company.

Under questioning by his attorney, James H. Vahey, Mr. Lamont declared he had surrendered the $10,000 in bonds on Monday, but is unable to produce the records because they are not in existence.

"What became of the books?" asked Attorney Vahey. "I destroyed the books at Natick March 6," Lamont answered.

"On March 4 you left the building with two suitcases and two carton boxes with your wife?" "Yes."

"What did the suitcases and boxes contain?" "At the time I left the suitcases contained four suits, a number of personal letter files and four black bookkeeping books."

The cartons, Lamont said, contained liquor he had in his office.

PROTEST BROOKLINE HOME; TO DEDICATE

Despite objections of residents of the Longwood section of Brookline, the Frauen Verein Home for Convalescents planned for that section, will be dedicated within a week or two.

This was announced today by Attorney Harry Goldkran, who declared that when the Brookline authorities established a zone barring hospitals, it did not include such institutions as the home in question, according to his interpretation.

STATLER WILL NOT BUILD

Mayor Curley received a letter from E. M. Statler today which, in his opinion, settles the question of a Statler hotel for Boston for some time to come, if not for all time.

This letter was in response to one from the Mayor in which he advised the owner of the great hotel chain that the people of this city were disappointed by the public announcement that he did not intend to go ahead with his plans for a big.

MUSICIAN ENDS LIFE WITH GUN

Alex Heindl Shoots Self in a Back Bay Suite; Suicide Leaves Three Notes

Alex Heindl, forty-five, said by neighbors to be a member of a Boston orchestra company, shot and killed himself today in the bathroom of his apartment, No. 29 Queensbury street, Fenway.

The musician left three notes, addressed to the medical examiner, his daughter and to whoever might discover his body on the bathroom floor.

George Jackson, colored janitor at the Audubon Apartments, where Heindl had been living for more than a year, found this last note, placed on a chair beside the apartment door, which the musician had left open.

Heindl killed himself some time between 8 and 10 o'clock. At 8 o'clock the janitor notified him that he was wanted on the hall telephone by a friend.

This friend asked him to go for an auto ride. Heindl declined, stating that it was impossible for him to go.

At 10 o'clock, the janitor, sweeping the corridor, discovered the note on the chair by the open door. Peering into the apartment he saw the body in the bathroom. Blood stained the floor. Jackson notified the police.

The musician had kept to himself since taking the Queensberry street apartment. He left usually at 9 o'clock in the morning, apparently to go to rehearsal, and did not reappear in his suite until late at night.

Heindl is survived by two daughters and a brother in New York. He is believed to have been formerly a member of a New York orchestra.

He had been in ill health.

DEATH OF WOMAN PROBED

Sister Finds the Body, Fully Dressed, on Floor in South End Home

The body of Miss Margaret T. Dennehy, forty-eight, of No. 909 Albany street, South End, was found today in the home of her sister, Mrs. Catharine Sunburg, No. 323 K street, South Boston, under circumstances that resulted in a police investigation.

Mystery surrounds the case. Miss Dennehy visited her sister last night with the intention of remaining over night.

She left her sister to retire. Early today Mrs. Sunburg found the body, fully clothed, on the dining room floor. There was nothing to indicate cause of death.

The police began a probe.

CHILD LABOR BILL CHECKED IN SENATE

Washington, May 7.—An attempt to have the child labor constitutional amendment brought before the Senate upon completion of the revenue bill was checked by Senator Wadsworth of New York. Senator Lodge asked unanimous consent that the resolution be taken up at that time. Senator Robinson, Arkansas, Democratic leader, said he had no objection, but suggested that the proposition be placed before the Senate when there was a larger attendance. Senator Wadsworth, however, objected.

MAINE MAN PROVES HE IS STILL ALIVE

Lewiston, May 7.—Isaie Asselin came here today to deny in person that he was "Bill Rill" from "somewhere in Maine," who committed suicide some time ago in Chicago, and to demonstrate to relatives and friends that he was alive. He said he had been working in a mill in Woonsocket, R. I., and had come here to visit his mother.

His sister-in-law went to Chicago and identified the body as that of Asselin. His wife sent $300 for burial expenses.

CALL BANKERS IN CAMBRIDGE CITY PROBE

Statement by District Attorney Arthur K. Reading of Middlesex County that he has been investigating financial affairs of the city of Cambridge, was followed today by the appearance of Boston bank officials before the grand jury.

Eugene Sullivan, former head bookkeeper of the closed Tremont Trust Company, and Benjamin W. Guernsey, manager of the bond department of the Old Colony Trust Company, testified.

They are believed to have given evidence relative to a half million dollar loan obtained by the city of Cambridge from the Tremont Trust and then left on deposit in the bank, city bonds later being sold by the Tremont Trust Company to the Old Colony Trust Company.

During a probe by the Cambridge City Council in 1921 in this connection, Simon Swig of the Tremont Trust denied that he had paid the then city treasurer, Henry F. Lehan, for borrowing the half million dollars and leaving it on deposit.

Doyle, Tufts' Assistant, and Ginsburg Also Accused of Compounding Felony

As an outgrowth of the removal trial of former District Attorney Nathan A. Tufts of Middlesex County, Nathan Doyle, a former attache in Tufts' office, was arraigned today in Middlesex Superior Court on two indictments charging him jointly with Attorney Joseph P. Walsh, Charles Ginsburg and William J. Corcoran with compounding a felony and being accessories after the fact of felony.

Doyle pleaded not guilty and was ordered under $1,000 bail by Judge Whiting. Walsh and Corcoran will be arraigned later.

J. P. Walsh.

District Attorney Arthur K. Reading said that part of the indictments against Corcoran would be nol prossed in view of his recent sentence of seven to ten years in State prison in the Kenneth Merrill blackmail trial.

The indictments are in connection with the alleged transactions of "Sir" Thomas O. Mosette, "medium," who is in jail under heavy bail on the charge of having swindled Mrs. Justine Gordon of Somerville out of $11,155.

Mosette was arrested in San Fran-

INDICT CORCORAN'S ATTORNEY IN "MOSETTE SWINDLE" CASE

WALSH AND 3 OTHERS INVOLVED

cisco in February and was brought back here on instructions from District Attorney Reading, on an indictment charging the Gordon swindle.

It was developed in the trial of Tufts before the Supreme Court that Tufts had nol prossed a similar indictment against Mosette, this blocking his return here from Columbus, Ohio, where he had been arrested for the Suffolk County authorities.

Mosette recently appeared as a witness before the Middlesex Grand Jury, and following this appearance there were rumors of the indictments disclosed today.

Mosette, whose advertising circulars claimed him to be a "master d" and a one-time adviser of lyn Nesbit, former wife of Harry Thaw, is alleged to have defrauded Mrs. Gordon of the $11,155 by taking the money, to invest for her. He gave note and vanished, she testified in the Tufts case.

ACCUSED.

Mrs. Gordon testified that after Mosette's disappearance she retained Harry E. Levenson as her attorney on the recommendation of a man in Mosette's office.

When Mosette was arrested in Ohio Inspector Loughlin of the Boston police went to bring him back. The testimony in the Tufts trial was that Loughlin found Levenson there and Levenson showed him a telegram from Cambridge showing that the indictment against Mosette had been nol prossed.

In that trial Attorney General J. Weston Allen accused Tufts of having nol prossed the indictment and "filing a false statement of his reason for so doing with the papers."

Levenson appeared as a witness before the Grand Jury in Middlesex on the same day Mosette recently appeared.

Attorney Walsh was counsel for Corcoran in the recent so-called blackmail trial. Ginsburg was at one time in Corcoran's law office.

Kissing of Bride Is No Crime, Jury Says; Awards $750

Philadelphia, Pa., May 7.—A man has a right to kiss his bride good-bye in a railroad station, even if it takes an hour to do it, a jury decided in Common Pleas Court before Judge Davis.

The jury awarded to Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Sverdlow $750 damages in their suit against the Reading Railway Company.

The couple charged financial loss and humiliation because of their arrest at the Reading Terminal in January, 1923.

They sought $50,000 damages. Judge Harris smiled broadly when he heard the verdict, but made no comment.

ACTORS' PEACE PACT BELIEVED NEAR IN N. Y.

Will Vote Sunday on New Agreement With Shubert Managers' Bloc

New York, May 7 (Universal).—Peace probably will be concluded Sunday between the Actors' Equity Association and the newly organized Managers' Protective Association, the Shubert bloc of managers who seceded from the old Producing Managers' Association to conclude a compromise agreement with the actors.

This was predicted when the Equity executive committee announced arrangements had been made to bring the contract up for ratification before a members' meeting Sunday. It is considered a foregone conclusion that the actors will ratify the agreement.

Frank Gilmore, executive secretary of Equity, issued a statement denying the Actors' Association had conducted negotiations for the purchase of a vaudeville charter from the American Federation of Labor preparatory to invading the vaudeville field.

"The policy Equity has always tried to follow is that of doing one thing at a time, and surely we have enough on our hands at present," he said.

He reported no progress in the negotiations between Equity and the "die-hard" members of the Producing Managers' Association.

GIRL VANISHES FROM HOME IN SOUTH BOSTON

Fearing that her fifteen year old daughter, Stella has been abducted by white slavers, Mrs. Mary Dulska, of No. 834 Dorchester avenue, South Boston, has appealed to the police to search for her.

The girl is described as being big for her age and one might take her to be eighteen or twenty years old. When she disappeared she was dressed in a dark brown overcoat with a gray fur collar, black shoes and stockings and a dark hat.

"My daughter is a graduate of St. Mary's Parochial school and I know that she would never run away," said Mrs. Dulska when asked if she thought her daughter had disappeared voluntarily. "Some of the children in the neighborhood told me they saw Stella with two women accompanied by two men in an automobile. She has been missing for four weeks and I don't know what I will do unless I find her soon. My health is broken. My husband and myself will spare no expense in order to find her."

ACCUSE BISHOP OF PLAYING CZAR'S ROLE

Rev. C. B. Mitchell, of St. Paul, Under Charges at Springfield

Springfield, May 7.—Charges of being an ecclesiastical despot have been preferred against Bishop Charles B. Mitchell of St. Paul, Minn., of the Methodist Episcopal church.

The charges have been preferred by the Rev. H. C. Burroughs, a minister of Union Grove, Wis., who is within the jurisdiction of Bishop Mitchell.

Announcement of the charges were made at the General Conference of the Methodist church in session here today.

The Rev Burroughs charges that his bishop is not only a despot, but is arbitrary in his rulings on church matters.

The charges will be taken up and the Bishop be heard by the conference committee on the Episcopacy.

The matter was originally placed in the hands of Dr. Samuel Plantz, president of Lawrence College of Appleton, Wis., but Dr. Plantz turned it over to the committee.

The conference by a vote of 802 to 13, today decided to join forces with the Southern branch of the Methodist church. This will heal a breech that has been in existence since the Civil War, when the two churches split over the question of the admission of colored communicants to the church.

The southern wing of the church has already voted in favor of the alliance. The affairs in the two districts will be administered by separate bishops and a name for the combined church will be selected at the general conference of the combined bodies.

The final vote was 842 for adoption and 13 against.

SHOE PEACE PACT APPLIES ONLY TO LYNN

The "Peace Pact" agreement entered into between shoe manufacturers of Lynn and the Amalgamated Shoe Workers of America relative to hours of work, wages, factory conditions and employment of operatives, Judge Carroll of the Supreme Court has decided applies only to manufacturers in Lynn, and does not bind any manufacturer who removes his business to other sections.

The Amalgamated Shoe Workers sought to obtain an injunction to restrain J. L. Molanson, one of the signers of the peace pact agreement, from starting a new factory at North Adams with employes not furnished or indorsed by the Shoe Workers. Judge Carroll has denied application for an injunction.

not important. What's wanted is ships with steel nets, to scoop up each day a few thousand tons of fish that are waiting to be caught, and distributed to the people at a fair price.

THE GOVERNMENT should help the fishing situation by killing off the tens of thousands of small-sized whales that devour the shore-bound salmon, in cold Northern waters.

D'ANNUNZIO, having tried everything, is now bankrupt and will sell his original manuscripts. He need not fear that he will know actual want, for Italy will see to that, and Mussolini personally would see to it if Italy didn't.

The King has just made D'Annunzio a prince. Mussolini will give him a pension if he needs it. Dictators are able to take short cuts. The best thing that real kings did was pensioning able men. But to live in a republic, where the really able man can pension himself, is better.

WHILE JAPAN tells us how much insulted they feel because we don't let them come into the United States, the Chinese are warning Matsui, Japan's Foreign Minister, that they, the Chinese, are much insulted because they are not allowed to settle on Japanese soil. Somebody in Japan must lack a sense of humor.

THE VOTE in California will tell President Coolidge about Japanese exclusion. His own State naturally would vote what some of the people think heavily for Hiram Johnson. But the lukewarm attitude of the administration on Japanese exclusion should add heavily to the Hiram Johnson vote.

The bigger that vote the more plainly the President will understand that temporizing with Asiatic exclusion is a sure way to lose California next November.

"THE FORCES of Evil are always organized," says President Coolidge to the Republican women of Philadelphia, "and the virtuous must also be organized."

But the forces of evil are so determined in pursuit of what they want, and virtue is usually so mild and gentle, that the fight is hardly even.

The inmate of a public institution, craving alcohol, cut off his hand, knowing that whiskey would be given him to sustain his heart. You rarely find the virtuous going to such extremes.

THE DIGNITARIES of the Methodist Episcopal Church suggest deporting all aliens caught violating the Volstead act. That new idea would enable the Shipping Board to earn a profit, if it got all the business.

The Methodist gentlemen are mistaken in their statement that "aliens make up the bulk of those who break the Volstead law." Gentlemen that go down to the sea in ships to meet the rum fleet, twelve miles out, are, as a rule, Americans of several generations.

SEE POLITICAL PLOT IN TOUPIN LOVE SUIT

Enemies Accused in Miss Olivier's "Case" Against R. I. Lieutenant-Governor

Providence, R. I., May 7.—Two or three days after Miss Josephine Olivier had notified her attorney that she had changed her mind and did not wish to go ahead with the matter, papers in the young woman's $25,000 suit against Lieutenant-Governor Felix A. Toupin were served upon the young Lieutenant-Governor just as he was entering the Senate Chamber to preside over the daily session.

The writ of summons is returnable in the Superior Court on June 10, at about which time, Miss Olivier says, Mr. Toupin expects to be married to a New Bedford girl.

GIRL DENIES SUIT.

"But I am not suing Lieutenant-Governor Toupin at all," the young lady says, "and my attorney, Patrick E. Dillon of Central Fall, had been advised by me that I had changed my mind and wished to withdraw."

"And I notified Sheriff Jonathan Andrews of Woonsocket," Lawyer Dillon says, "leaving word both at his house and his office that the writ was not to be served."

"I did my best to stop it," declares Sheriff Andrews, "but it was already in the hands of Deputy Sheriff Thomas Dorsey, and Dorsey had started out upon his route.

"I couldn't find him."

All of which has led Lieutenant-Governor Toupin's followers to declare that their young leader is once more being made the object of an extremely bitter "political persecution."

Miss Olivier, 32, a brunette of attractive appearance, is a sister of the Rev. A. E. Olivier, pastor of St. James Church in Manville.

Lieutenant-Governor Toupin, 35, a popular bachelor, is one of Father Olivier's parishoners.

FAMILY OBJECTED.

"My brother, the priest, my mother, all the members of our family," Miss Olivier says, "threshed the thing out in a family conference a few nights ago and came to the conclusion that we did not want litigation.

"The family objections were, first, the horrible publicity that goes with this sort of action and, secondly, the harmful effect it would be likely to have at this time upon the career of an able young man who, after all, merely changed his mind regarding which girl he wishes to marry.

"I felt I had done all that was necessary when I got in touch with Mr. Dillon and told him not to go ahead."

The suit, Attorney Dillon explains, was got under way on Saturday of last week.

"I already had notified Lieutenant-Governor Toupin that I had been retained," said Mr. Dillon, "and suggested to him the wisdom of an early conference.

"To that suggestion I received no reply whatever, but Mr. Toupin did call my client by telephone. She, I am sorry to say, hung up the receiver when she recognized the Lieutenant-Governor's voice.

"It was not until Monday night of this week that Miss Olivier let me know of her decision to drop the matter. She said something about a family conference at which Father Olivier was present, but I was too much surprised by her sudden change of front to be impressed by the details."

Miss Josephine Olivier, who for at least a day or two was in the way of threatening the young Democratic leader with a suit for alleged breach of promise, makes at least two interesting admissions.

She never received a ring from the Lieutenant-Governor because, she says, he does not believe in rings.

And she does not claim that Mr. Toupin ever set a date for their marriage.

PLANNED TO WED

"It was about eight years ago," Miss Olivier says, "that Felix and I were attracted to each other and began going together.

"It was understood almost from the beginning that some day we would wed.

"He was a poor young man in those days, and in order to have more money than I could earn as a public school teacher I gave up my position in the schools and entered the employ of the J. & P. Coats Company.

"Things just drifted along, in this manner, and we were very happy.

"Suddenly, some five or six months ago, his visits dropped from three and four a week to none at all. There was some comment about this at home, but it was agreed that it must be due first to the demand of politics and later to the demands of his high office.

RIVAL APPEARS.

"He did not tell me the truth until last month, when he took me on two long motor rides and eventually explained that he did not think we were suited for each other. The truth appeared to be that another girl had come into his life, a New Bedford girl, whom he hoped to marry at an early date.

dent, and former army aviator.

News of the marriage has just been confirmed by Mr. Barry. He declared the marriage took place without his knowledge, but that as soon as he learned of it he sent his blessing and best wishes to the newlyweds.

The day after the marriage, the bride's father and brothers had planned to stage a party at their home, No. 32 Signourney street, on the occasion of her nineteenth birthday. But Alice fooled them and ushered in her nineteenth year as Mrs. Sullivan.

It will be remembered that Miss Barry turned down an offer to enter the movies two years ago, when she was chosen as a remarkable type for the screen.

Miss Barry was graduated from Notre Dame Academy last year when she entered Radcliffe.

Sullivan, who completes his studies at Yale this year, is a graduate of Boston College, where he won renown as a debater. During the war he was a lieutenant in the army and was at Kelley Field as an instructor in aviation. His parents live at No. 20 Taft street, Dorchester.

The couple now reside in New Haven.

modern hotel in the Park Square district.

The Mayor promised Mr. Statler, in his letter, that he would co-operate in every way in his power and was confident that the project would have hearty public support in the removal of any features which were holding it up.

Mr. Statler, in his reply, tells Mayor Curley that it is not the heighth question which hinders because "unfortunately a change in the height now would mean great additional expense for a change in the plans."

He reiterates that, in his judgment, it will not be possible for Boston to have a hotel such as he proposed until the cost of labor and materials and taxes are much lower than they are now.

Mr. Statler has bought a site which cost $1,600,000, and the Mayor wonders what he is going to do about it. He is convinced that further urging of Mr. Statler to change his mind would be useless.

Had there been the slightest note of encouragement in the Statler letter Mayor Curley had planned to go to New York tomorrow fortified with arguments and assurances that he believes would influence Mr. Statler to push forward the hotel building program which is in the hands of contractors. In his opinion, the Legislature would have been willing to pass a special act enabling Mr. Statler to build above the legal height if that was all that stood in the way.

INSISTS STORY OF 'DELIVERY' WAS TRUTH

Miller Claims Coolidge Denial of Shoals Interview Is Political Lie

Washington, May 7.—James Martin Miller, who, in a telegram, quoted President Coolidge as saying he was "trying to deliver" Muscle Shoals to Henry Ford, told the Senate Agriculture Committee today that he had "correctly and truthfully" stated the facts in the message which he sent to Ford's secretary within twenty-five minutes after an interview with the President.

The President, Miller said, did not deny the interview had taken place. Mr. Coolidge, he insisted, brought up the subject of Muscle Shoals.

"The branding of the telegram as a lie is a gross political dissimulation," he said.

Miller told the committee the government had no secret service or propaganda organization greater than that of Ford's.

Before Miller took the stand, Senator Norris inserted in the record the letter sent to the committee by Henry Ford, in which the manufacturer said he would not be represented further before the committee, giving as one of the reasons, "the recent efforts of Chairman Norris to reflect upon the integrity of the President of the United States in connection with our offer for Muscle Shoals."

At the same time the chairman issued a statement declaring Ford's letter was "an attempt to shift the attention of the public from the real question at issue' and adding that he would continue his course in trying to "save for the people the valuable inheritance of our national resources."

"I have no ill-feelings toward any one in connection with Muscle Shoals," Chairman Norris said.

"Mr. Ford's statement that I have been trying to reflect upon the integrity of the President is simply an attempt to shift the attention of the public from the real question at issue.

"I am sincerely endeavoring to save for the people of the United States the valuable inheritance of our national resources and I will continue to do this regardless of results and regardless of who may be involved.

"The evidence stands undisputed that the President did have an interview with Mr. Miller on the 12th day of October, 1923, and it is undisputed that Mr. Miller sent the telegram printed in the record, and that such telegram was received by Mr. Ford's private secretary.

"The President has not denied that the subject of this interview was Muscle Shoals. He has simply stated that he has not made an attempt to turn Muscle Shoals over to anybody.

"I read the President's statement into the record, so that all sides of the controversy may be heard. The committee and the Senate as well as the public, can draw their own conclusions."

KIDNAPED BABY FOUND; STOLEN BY WOMAN TO FOOL HUSBAND

ABDUCTOR AND MATE ARRESTED

Took Philadelphia Child to Make Him Think It Was Hers, She Says

Philadelphia, May 7.—Ten-weeks-old Corinne Modell, stolen on Monday as she lay asleep in her baby carriage in front of her home, was found by the police today in the house of a woman who admitted she took the infant to fool her husband.

The child was unharmed and in good condition.

The woman, Mrs. Mary De Marco, and her husband, Gorman De Marco, were arrested. The house where the child was found is in West Philadelphia, about a mile from the Modell home.

Mrs. De Marco told the police she took the baby home on Monday and told her husband it was born that day while he was at work.

HUSBAND ARRESTED.

Her husband, she said, believed her story. The police, however, were skeptical and immediately placed handcuffs on the husband and took him to a police station along with his wife.

"How dare you come into my home and try to take my child?" screamed Mrs. De Marco. "Do you think I would have this baby if it were not mine."

ADMITS KIDNAPING

Her husband was very excited. He threatened the detectives and ordered them out of the house.

"My wife has just had a child and you come in here and try to take it away," he exclaimed.

A physician, Dr. M. C. Thrush, could not identify the baby. He said the woman came to him about a month ago for advice declaring her husband insisted she must have a child.

Further inquiries by the police in the presence of the physician caused [illegible] De Marco to admit the chil[illegible] hers and that she took [illegible] the perambulator.

[illegible]eanwhile the infant lay asleep [illegible] the bed covered by the same blu[illegible] blanket in which it was [illegible]pped when taken.

[illegible]e father of the child was sum[illegible]ed. He identified the baby and [illegible]as finally placed in his arms.

[illegible]EERED BY CROWD.

[illegible]urrounded by Police he made his [illegible]y through a crowd that had gath[illegible]d in front of the house. Men, [illegible]men and children cheered as [illegible] and baby sped home. Cheers [illegible]ain greeted him as he tearfully [illegible]shed into his home and restored [illegible]he baby to its mother.

Mrs. de Marco said she saw the baby in its carriage in front of the Modell house Monday morning. "I had to have a baby to satisfy my husband whom I told I was going to have one," she said.

"I walked by the baby again and again and stayed in the neighborhood. Then in the afternoon, when I saw the baby alone again, I just picked it up and ran."

Mrs. Harry Modell, mother of the infant, gave a shriek when informed over the telephone that her baby had been recovered, and fainted in the arms of her brother-in-law.

Shortly afterward her husband rushed into their home with the child in his arms and handed it over to the mother.

"Oh, my darling, my darling, thank God I have you back," Mrs. Modell cried.

$6,000 REWARDS.

Police were led to the home of Mrs. De Marco by a "tip" from neighbors, who said they saw her enter her home on Monday carrying a "large bundle."

The house was placed under surveillance, and when the woman was questioned she maintained the child found there was hers.

She referred the police to a physician some distance from her home whom she said had the birth certificate. The doctor, however, could not recall the case.

Rewards aggregating $6,000 had been offered for the finding of the baby; $1,000 by Mayor Kendrick, $3,000 by a Philadelphia newspaper and $2,000 by the Sixtieth Street Business Men's Association.

RADCLIFFE GIRL TO WORK IN SLUMS

MADELEINE VAN HALL

WILL STUDY HOW 'OTHER HALF LIVES'

Miss Madeleine Van Hall of Roslindale has been selected by Radcliffe College to spend one month in New York this Summer to study how "the other half" lives.

As one of twelve young women picked from a like number of American educational institutions, Miss Van Hall will be the guest of the associated charity organizations of the metropolis during July.

With other girls interested in social service, the Radcliffe girl will make her home in a settlement-house on the lower East Side, will attend lectures, do her share of case-work and visit juvenile courts, reformatories, homes for the feeble-minded, schools for the blind, silk mills and other factories.

"Junior Month," as it is called, was conceived by the charity organizations eight years ago, having been made possible by the gift of an anonymous donor.

Choice of the college representatives is made on the basis of academic standing, non-academic activities, character and popularity.

Miss Van Hall, of high academic rank, is a member of the Radcliffe debating team, has taken part in college dramatics and is secretary of the junior class.

She was the unanimous choice of a student and faculty committee.

TURNED LOOSE ON B. & M., SAYS CROOKER

Washington, May 7.—Conrad W. Crooker, Boston attorney for minority stockholders of the Boston & Maine made his third appearance today before the Senate Daugherty committee to criticize Former Attorney-General Daugherty's modification of the consent degree in the New Haven merger case.

He asserted that Federal Judge Mayer had been "grossly imposed upon by Mr. Daugherty" in allowing the New Haven decree to be at first modified and later vacated.

Daugherty "turned the New Haven loose on the Boston & Maine," by his action, Crooker said, since the consent decree forbade the New Haven from participating in the control of the Boston & Maine.

W. J. Burns, chief of the Bureau of Investigation, came into the hearing room during Crooker's testimony and Senator Wheeler said he intended to examine the detective chief later in the day.

Crooker asserted that after modification of the New Haven decree, Daugherty also dismissed criminal indictments against William Rockefeller and other directors of the road, which were pending several years after the legal attack on the merger.

Paul Howland, attorney for Mr. Daugherty, got Crooker to agree that the indictments had been kept pending for seven years before Daugherty took office without action except for one trial on some of them, which resulted in a jury indictment.

COOLIDGE WINS IN CALIFORNIA BY 30,000

San Francisco, May 7.—In one of the biggest political upsets in recent years, President Calvin Coolidge today was returned victor in California's presidential primary over Senator Hiram Johnson of California by a majority which probably will reach 30,000.

With returns tabulated from 4,290 of the state's 6947 precincts, President Coolidge was leading Senator Johnson today by approximately 15,000. As returns to come were largely from Los Angeles and other southern counties where the President was piling up a big vote, his campaign managers asserted the President's majority might run as high as 50,000.

The vote for 4290 precincts stood: Johnson 187,553; Coolidge 202,380.

California Democrats endorsed William Gibbs McAdoo for the Democratic presidential nomination by a big majority which, on the face of incomplete returns, probably will be five or six to one.

COOLIDGE WILL FORCE FIGHT ON JAP EXCLUSION

Washington, May 7.—The administration fight against the immigration bill provision making Japanese exclusion effective July 1, will be carried to the floor of the Senate and House when the bill comes up for final action.

President Coolidge informed congressional leaders today that he regarded the date set as entirely too soon to permit the diplomatic arrangement he wants to make with Japan, and steps were taken immediately afterward to line up those who sympathize with his idea to oppose acceptance of the conference report.

The President favors March 1, 1926, as the effective date of the exclusion provision and he is hopeful that at least a delay of a few months beyond the date fixed by the conferes finally will be agreed to by Congress.

DEFENCE PREPARES SURPRISE

Amaral's Counsel to Follow 'Waiting Policy' Until Case Comes Up for Hearing

Providence, R. I., May 7.—When Anthony J. Amaral appears in the Seventh District Court at East Providence on Wednesday of next week to be charged with kidnaping and slaying nine-year-old Clementine Cosmo, he will be fortified with an alibi which, his attorneys believe, will be steel-proof, cross-examination-proof, lawyer-proof and police-proof.

That statement was made by Walter I. Sundlun and William A. Needham after a long conference with the young Portuguese in Cranston Prison, the principal purpose of which was to account for Amaral's whereabouts not only hour by hour, but minute by minute throughout the fateful day of April 22.

"Whether we decide to reveal this alibi in detail on the 14th instant," Lawyer Sundlun said, "will be determined entirely by circumstances.

"It may be deemed prudent to wait, to let the case go to the Grand Jury, to permit our client to be bound over. That will put the entire onus on the prosecution, and we are today perfectly satisfied that, in trying to pin this murder on our young client, the authorities more than have their hands full."

Dr. George Burgess Magrath of Boston, homicide expert, who conducted the second autopsy on the body of the Cosmo girl, declined point blank to say whether anything that looked like the threads of an automobile mat had been found under the child's nails.

Apparently adapting himself to "the nothing to give out" policy of the other side, Attorney Sundlun now declines to discuss further the revelations made to him on Monday night by a man residing in a town "seven miles to the east of Providence" regarding the mulatto he saw at the roadside there on the day of Clementine Cosmo's abduction.

TAMMANY TO PICK CHIEF TOMORROW

New York, May 7.—The executive committee of Tammany Hall meets tomorrow to choose a leader to succeed Charles F. Murphy. The call for the meeting, issued by William Allen, chairman, was said to have been caused by the widening gap between Mayor Hylan and the Wigwam.

James A. Foley.

The desire to present a solid front to reinforce Governor Smith's presidential boom and to check the possible insurgency of other aspirants for the chieftain's toga also were said to have been causes. Members of the dominant group in the Hall were reported still to have hope that Surrogate James A. Foley, son-in-law of Murphy, would consent to take the leadership.

Surrogate John P. O'Brien today signed an order permitting Mrs. Murphy to open boxes in three safe deposit vaults in search of the will of the late Tammany leader.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 7.—Two men are being held here while police check up with Toronto authorities to determine whether they were members of a bandit gang which obtained $130,000 in raids on Toronto bank messengers last Summer. The men gave their names as Merrill A. Turner, 26, and Harold M. Humphrey, 21, both of St. John, N. B. Weapons were found in the men's rooms when they were arrested.

Houdini Cries 'Fake' At Spaniard Who Sees Through Iron

New York, May 7.—Whether Joaquin Maria Argamasilla, 19-year-old Spaniard, can really see through metals was not finally determined today but that Harry Houdini, American magician, was not sure of Joaquin's prowess, was fairly clear.

Argamasilla apparently read names through a silver metal box, a tin box and then through an iron box. Finally he told the time through a gold hunting case watch, so it seemed.

Houdini, who had a wager on the demonstration, was unconvinced. His accusation of trickery caused an uproar.

KLAN CANDIDATE IS VICTOR IN INDIANA

Indianapolis, May 7 (A.P.)—President Coolidge's victory in the Republican primary giving him thirty-three more votes to the National Convention almost faded from the sight of political observers today with interest centered in the contest for the Republican nomination for Governor, which accentuated the Ku Klux Klan issue.

Ed Jackson, Secretary of State, running with Ku Klux Klan support, far outstripped his five opponents for the gubernatorial nomination. Jackson's closest opponent, Mayor Lew Shank of Indianapolis, avowed opponent of the Klan, was many thousand votes behind.

Unofficial returns from 1,586 of the state's 3,409 precincts gave Coolidge 127,048 and Johnson 20,892.

Latest returns from 1,673 of the state's 3,409 precincts gave Jackson 84,645; Toner 26,340; Davis 4,614; Shank 34,200; Bush 10,854; Dulberger 1,452.

Klan Condemned at Polls in Texas Primary

Dallas, Texas, May 7.—W. G. McAdoo, candidate for president, was assured control of the Texas Democratic convention at Waco, May 27, by action of the County Democratic conventions.

Returns from 119 of the 252 counties of the state showed 696 state delegates had been instructed for McAdoo, giving him a majority of 67 votes.

Senator Oscar W. Underwood received but 53 pledged delegates while 150 delegates are uninstructed. Governor Neff, who opposed both McAdoo and Underwood, goes to the convention as head of the Travis County delegation.

The Ku Klux Klan issue developed in the Bosque and Valverde County conventions, which adopted resolutions against that organization.

BURGLARS GET $165 IN INDIA ST.

Loot Office of Jenney Manufacturing Company, but Miss Big Haul

Safe crackers got $165 but overlooked $1,000 wrapped in a piece of newspaper in a safe at the office of the Jenney Manufacturing Company, No. 8 India street, today.

The safe, a small one, was forced by breaking off the handle connected with the combination. A sledge hammer evidently was used.

Entrance to the office was made through a lattice work door opening. Employes of the Jenney Company, an oil concern, discovered the robbery when the office was opened for business.

The $1,000 the thieves overlooked was in bills of small denomination. It had been sorted, counted and wrapped in a piece of newspaper preparatory to being taken to the bank.

In addition to the $165 the thieves also took a check on the Everett National Bank, made payable to the Jenney Company.

Police believe the robbery was committed by boys. Photographs have been made of a number of finger-prints on the safe.

Revival of Honesty In Public Office Is Demand of A. F. L.

Washington, May 7.—Rules for measurement of "parties, platforms and candidates" in approaching political contests are laid down in a declaration published by the American Federation of Labor Non-Partisan Campaign Committee.

Citing recent "astounding revelations" that "stagger the imagination," and charging that "representatives of reaction and special privilege have fought to protect the enemies of public welfare," the committee demands a revival of the "spirit of honesty, integrity and high mindedness in public offices."

GUARD SIX DOOMED TO HANG

Louisiana Troops Escort Condemned Men to Scene of Execution

New Orleans, May 7.—The six Italians sentenced to be hanged Friday for the murder of Dallas Calmes were taken from the parish prison here early today and started on their journey to Amite, where the executions will take place.

They were escorted by a troop of National Guards.

The troops were called to guard the train as a precaution, following anonymous threats to "blow it up."

Roy Leona, one of the men who recently confessed to the crime in an attempt to save his five companions was in a serious condition after stabbing himself near the heart five times shortly before boarding the train.

Guards forcibly dressed one of the prisoners while another had to be taken from his cot. The three others protested they were going to their death innocently and marched to the train. The soldiers, deputies and condemned men filled a special coach.

MAIL WORKERS ACT TO SAVE PAY RAISE

Bill Granting $300 Year Increase Imperilled by Enemies in Washington

As the result of a telegram from Washington that the House bill increasing the pay of postal workers is in danger of being killed, members of the Boston branch of the Railway Mail Association discussed the situation at a meeting at the Quincy House.

Representatives of the mail workers in Washington wired that the bill is endangered by Representative Ramseyer of Iowa who is seeking to file a minority committee report on the measure. The bill would give postal workers a $300 a year increase.

Mr. Ramseyer wants action in the House delayed until the minority report is ready, which will be in about ten days.

The Washington agents also fear that President Coolidge may veto the measure on the grounds of economy. Enemies of the bill, it is said, are seeking to make the measure appear in the light of a treasury raid.

An effort is being made to stir up postal workers in all parts of the country and prevent defeat of the bill at the last moment through lack of interest.

MARTIN'S FATE MAY SOON BE REVEALED

Searching Parties Are Expected Back From Alaskan Ice Fields Today

Chignik, Alaska, May 7 (AP).—News concerning the fate of Major Frederick L. Martin, American around-the-world flyer, missing in the Alaskan ice fields, was expected here today from searching parties which left Chignik last Saturday.

The searching parties invaded the territory northwest of Chignik. These searchers, before their departure, said that if Major Martin was found in that region they hoped to return to Chignik today. Otherwise they planned to move on and search the Bering Sea side of the Aleutian Islands between Meshik and ten miles south of the Seal Islands, in which event it would take a week or more for them to return.

Major Martin and Staff Sergeant Alva L. Harvey left here last Wednesday in the flagplane Seattle for Dutch Harbor, to rejoin the other three members of the squadron.

These three now are at Atka Island, preparing for departure for Attu Island on the extreme end of the Aleutian, and the last scheduled stop on this side of the globe. The hop-off on this leg was to have taken place yesterday, but unfavorable weather delayed the three.

Braggiotti Sisters Plan Dancing Fete at "Weld," May 24, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN.

A BAND of Terpsichore's most graceful exponents will take part in the dancing fete which Miss Berthe and Francesca Braggiotti and their pupils will present on Saturday, May 24.

Mrs. Larz Anderson is lending magnificent "Weld" for the occasion, the terraces and gardens of the estate offering a wonderfully effective out-door setting.

(Photo by Bachrach)
Miss Margery Richardson

Among the varied number of attractions on the program will be an Egyptian dance, which the two clever sisters themselves originated. Interpretating this number will be the Misses Martha Bigelow, Margery Richardson and Helen Hamlin.

Miss Bigelow, whose engagement to Theodore Eliot caused such a furore of interest when it was announced earlier in the Spring, took part in several charming dances in this year's Vincent show. Miss Bigelow and Miss Richardson both took part in the dainty Dresden shepherdess dance, in which they wore picturesque costumes fashioned of oilcloth.

Other delightful offerings await those who attend the fete, the proceeds to help establish the Braggiotti scholarships in the Denishawn School. A generous portion of society will make its way to "Weld" on the 24th, for those taking part in the affair are either debutantes or debutantes-to-be.

IT was a distinctly fashionable audience which sat spellbound through the opening performance of "The Thief of Bagdad" at the Colonial Theatre.

Shakespeare once said, in somewhat different words, that all people were but children grown. Which explains admirably the breathless interest and enthusiasm with which everyone followed Douglas Fairbanks in his role of the lovable Bagdad thief.

Mrs. S. H. Wolcott

Magic carpet, flying horse, fire-breathing monsters, and never-failing wishing box—one and all were made to seem just as plausible before the picture ended, as they did in the days when one read the fairy tales of Mr. Grimm.

A corps of Vincent girls, headed by Miss Eleanora Winslow, and garbed in Oriental costumes, sold flowers during the intermission.

Among the audience was Mrs. S. Huntington Wolcott, in a jolly party which included also Mrs. Charles S. Bird, Jr.

Miss Edith Parker, wearing a girlish frock of Alice blue with a cluster of pink flowers over one shoulder, was in another party to which belonged Miss Hannah Hallowell, popular daughter of the N. Penrose Hallowells.

Miss Alice Onderdonk was there—her dress an affair of lacy black, as was Mrs. Reginald Boardman, and Mrs. W. Deering Howe, the latter just returned with Mr. Howe from one of their frequent trips to Gotham.

The proceeds of the opening presentation of the film were turned over to the Boston Lying-In Hospital.

WELLESLEY TO HOLD 'FLOAT NIGHT' MAY 29

Annual Event Will Usher in Commencement; College Play to Be Staged June 13

Plans are being perfected at Wellesley College for the annual commencement, that opens with "Float Night," May 29, on Lake Waban.

This is a gala night. Many floats, representing constellations and the like, are paddled in front of a large grandstand erected on the lake shore while powerful searchlights play on them. Helen Jackson, class of 1925, of Brookline is in charge of "Float Night" this year.

Tree Day observances will be held Saturday, May 31, on Tower Court Green, in charge of Dorothea Schmetgen of Wilmette, Ill.

Two weeks of worry and toil during final examinations interrupt commencement exercises here, but after all this has passed into history, the Barnswallows Association, the dramatic club, presents its annual play, "Romeo and Juliet."

On the following Sunday, June 15, the Baccalaureate service will be held in Houghton Memorial Chapel, with the Rev. Willard L. Sperry, dean of Andover Theological Seminary, as speaker.

Monday, June 16, will be devoted to class meetings, the alumni processions and the president's reception at 8 p. m.

Graduation exercises will be held at 10.30 a. m., Tuesday, June 17, in the College Chapel. The Rev. Samuel McChord Crothers will address the seniors.

TRAGEDY WALKS BESIDE GREAT JEW ACTOR

Thousands Cheer Adler as He Returns to Stage, a Decrepit Old Man

New York, May 7 (I.N.S.)—Tragedy stalked, uninvited, into the Second Avenue Theatre, cockpit of East Side emotionalism since time without memory, and played opposite Jacob P. Adler, greatest actor known to the Yiddish stage. It smirked and simpered over the reductions of a great past, and out in the audience old men with patient eyes and women wearing the orthodox headdress wept unashamed.

They wept for Jacob P. Adler, only a hollow shell of the man who was carried through the streets of London years ago after playing "King Lear." He realized too late the futility of trying to reach back through the years for a gift that is gone, and wept with them.

Adler, returning to the stage at his own request for a farewell performance of "The Stranger," after an absence of two years, found that the spirit was, indeed, willing, but the flesh all too weak.

Seventy years old, a semi-paralytic and almost voiceless, his entrance cue was a loud knock upon the stage door. Instantly orchestra pit to gallery rocked under the cry of:

"Adler: Kommt."

It was heard in the street where waited 10,000 members of his race, unable to gain admittance, and was taken up there and passed along from lip to lip.

Then Adler came. He appeared in the stage doorway a figure supported by a heavy cane, white of hair and with one useless arm swinging loosely at his side. He crouched forward as though about to tumble in a heap and eagerly sought a chair into which he all but collapsed.

Still in his chair, he nodded and spoke brokenly to his cheering people as the curtain descended and arose upon tumultuous encores. Finally, they let him go.

He went from the stage an actor no longer. Just an old man with an empty future but a full heart.

NEWPORT MAN FAVORS BIBLE REVISION

Hotter and hotter the controversy is growing throughout New England over the question of retaining the old or writing a new Bible.

And hotter and hotter the controversy is developing over the question of whether the Ten Commandments are suffient to present day uses.

From every New England State—from distant points in these States—and, of course, from Greater Boston, too, the answers of American readers to the questions propounded, come in.

CONTEST CLOSES SATURDAY.

Have you sent yours yet? If you haven't, remember that the contest will close next Saturday, May 10.

Albert V. Clausen of No. 33 Congdon avenue, Newport, R. I., believes the Bible should undergo a revision, while the Ten Commandments should be retained in their entirety. Following is an excerpt from his letter:

"Antedated as it is, the Bible does not arouse in the younger generation the interest that it should. Compiled in a more connectedly narrative form, with emphasis laid on its many wonderful lessons, its appeal would be many times that of the King James Version, couched as it is in the language of a by-gone era.

"I believe the Ten Commendments should be retained. They cover the field of human failings perfectly."

From Rye Centre, N. H., however, comes a letter from Mrs. Myrtle Barrows, declaring that both the Bible and Ten Commandments should not be meddled with.

"Why should the world need a new Bible?" the letter asks, "when the present one has sufficed for so many years. Its sacred teachings have been the creator and inspiration of great things.

NEW BIBLE NEEDED.

"The Ten Commandments are sufficent to carry us through life in a pretty decent way if we live up to them the best we know how."

R. Palmer Delano, Jr., of No. 28 Mather street, Dorchester, says in his letter:

"The Bible is a review of human nature and, although customs and surroundings may change, human nature is always the same.

"Those who are not uplifted by the love of Christ for man, as set forth in our Bible, can never call themselves Christians, no matter what textbook they may compile and call a 'Bible.'"

Samuel Bramhall of No. 31 Hamilton street, Lawrence, writes:

"Does the world need a new Bible? Yes, it needs it bad, but it does not know it. It hasn't learned to want it yet. We need most of all a true conception of the Bible.

"Are the Ten Commandments sufficient? Sufficient for what? To hold the people down? No. Christ repudiated them and why should we accept them? Ten thousand commandments would not be sufficient."

From Manuel Savin of No. 1431 Dorchester avenue, Dorchester, comes the following:

"The Bible has that wonderful capacity of adapting itself to human conditions.

"As to the Ten Commandments, not only do they still hold good, but their truthful teachings will influence humanity for centuries to come."

A number of incidents between American residents and Cuban officials have been reported on the Isle of Pines, and C. F. Fetter, an American merchant, is in jail for refusing to pay a $5 fine.

NARROW ESCAPE AT BROCKTON BLAZE

Machine Operator Is Nearly Trapped in Burning Factory; Loss $5,000

Brockton, May 7.—Vincent Hanson, electric "picker" operator, narrowly escaped with his life today in a fire that destroyed the Eureka Upholstery Co. storehouse in Center street, East Side, with an estimated loss of $5,000.

The fire, directly across the street from the Brockton Hospital, excited many patients.

An automobile, left standing at the curb in front of the storehouse a few minutes before flames swept the one-story wooden structure, was destroyed, so rapidly did the fire spread.

A spark from an electric "picker," operated by Hanson and used in upholstery work, started the blaze, according to the police. Inflammable materials scattered about in the storehouse fed the flames like tinder. Hanson barely escaped being badly burned or being trapped in the building.

ELEVATED NOW RUNS SEVEN BUS LINES

Dana Explains System of Expansion for "Short Haul" Transportation

By BERT FORD.

Seven motor bus lines are being operated in Greater Boston by the Boston Elevated Railway Company. Applications have been filed for four additional bus lines and there is demand for seven more lines which the trustees are considering in their plan of expansion.

It may be news to the general public to learn that the motor bus has already become an integral part of the Elevated system and that its value as an auxiliary to street railway service is constantly increasing.

Experts say, however, that the motor bus, despite the grip of the motor on modern life, will not replace the trolley car in the handling of mass transportation. They agree that the bus fills a growing need and that it is important in short hauls and cross hauls and linking up lines in sections where trackage would be difficult or out of the question.

FOR AUXILIARY SERVICE.

The trustees of the Boston Elevated realized some years ago the necessity for using motor busses as an auxiliary branch of the service, with the result that the first motor bus line was installed February 22, 1922, from Union square to Brooks street, Brighton.

Since then five other lines have been added—a short line from Hanover street to Haymarket square, a line from Linden street to Malden square, another from Fellsway to Malden square via Highland avenue; one from Wellington to Medford square and one from Mattapan to Readville, via Cleary square.

Applications have been filed for bus lines from Rowes Wharf to Arch street in the city proper; another from Union square, Allston, to Harvard square, via North Harvard street; one from Edward Everett square to City Point via Columbia road to pass the new public bath house, and a line from West Roxbury to Park square via the Fenway.

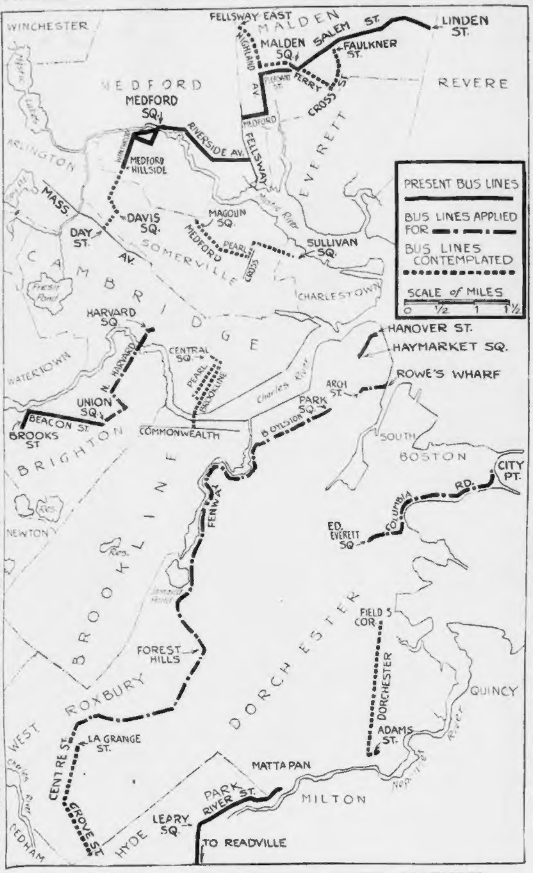
HEARING NEXT MONDAY.

A hearing on the latter line before the City Council on Monday showed strong demand for bus transportation by representatives from Jamaica Plain, West Roxbury, Roslindale, Forest Hills, Mt. Hope and Germantown.

The bus lines contemplated are: Magoun square via Pearl and Medford streets to Sullivan square; Medford Hillside, via Davis square to Day and Massachusetts avenues, Central square, Cambridge, via Pearl and Brookline streets to Commonwealth avenue. Faulkner to Malden square via Cross and Ferry streets; Highland avenue and Fellsway East via Pleasant street to Malden square, Adams street to Fields Corner, Dorchester, and from the Dedham-Boston line via Grove and German streets to Lagrange and Centre streets, West Roxbury.

The seven bus lines at present in operation average 60,000 miles a month. General Manager Edward Dana of the Elevated told the City Councillors that the road could hire buses for $50 a month in explaining that such a line as that proposed between West Roxbury and Park square would not involve any such outlay of money as a trolley line would.

HOW 'L' PLANS MORE JITNEYS



MAP SHOWS LINES IN OPERATION, OTHERS PROJECTED

With seven bus lines now in operation in Greater Boston the Elevated plans for four more and in addition there are demands for seven others as indicated by the maps and the key thereto. General Manager Dana explains there is no possibility of the jitney bus succeeding the trolley in general transportation but that rather the latter will be supplemented by the bus lines in a "short hauls" system to be operated in districts where density of traffic does not exist.

FIND VAST FIELD OF MINES IN BALTIC SEA

Lubeck, Germany, May 7.—Mine fields covering 280 square miles have been discovered in the Eastern Baltic, off Finland. The mines are said to be of Russian origin, dating from the World War.

This is taken here as confirming the finding of the Stettin marine office that the recent sinking of a German ship in the Baltic was due to explosion of a mine.

20 MILLIONS TO HEAR BIG G. O. P. CONVENTION

Three Broadcasting Stations Reserved for Sending Proceedings From the Hall

Cleveland, May 7 (I.N.S.)—Entertaining this year its first major political convention, Cleveland is preparing on an elaborate scale for the 100,000 or more visitors who will come to see a candidate for President nominated.

The great army of visitors is expected to overflow all the hotels, rooms for transients and private homes when the Republican National Convention assembles here June 10.

Convention officials estimate that 20,000,000 people in all parts of the United States and Canada will "hear" if they cannot see the proceedings of the Republican party as they write their platform and name their candidates. Three broadcasting stations have been reserved for the sending of convention proceedings by radio direct from the hall—

WJAX, WTAM AND WNBK.

Loud speakers will be placed in all the hotel lobbies, assembly halls and prominent street corners so that the convention crowd can know at all times what is going on at the public hall where the convention will be held.

Close to $500,000, convention officials estimated, will be expended in the entertainment of the city's guests. The downtown district and the boulevard system surrounding the city will be elaborately decorated, while arrangements have been made for boat rides on Lake Erie, illuminated airplane manoeuvres, special acts and the like.

"Hotel and restaurant rates will remain at the normal standards. No guests will be gouged," says the committee.

WM. M. BUTLER 'HAS NO DOUBT' COX WILL RUN

Expresses This Opinion After an Interview With Executive at Algonquin Club

William M. Butler, chairman-designate of the Republican National Committee, "has no doubt whatever" that Governor Channing H. Cox will be the Republican candidate next fall against United States Senator David I. Walsh.

Mr. Butler made this statement after a conference with Governor Cox at the Algonquin Club.

The Governor and the man who will manage President Coolidge's campaign were together in private for nearly an hour.

When their talk was over, Mr. Butler was the only one who would talk.

Regardless of all that has been said, is being said, or may be said, the Coolidge manager is confident that Cox will respond to the call of his party and enter the lists.

How important is the apparent necessity of the Governor's entrance into the senatorial fight, as viewed at Washington, is shown by the pertinacity with which Chairman Butler adheres to his Cox program in the face of the angry protest of Louis A. Coolidge.

Mr. L. A. Coolidge, who is in the senatorial primary contest on his own account, has warned both the President and Chairman Butler to keep "hands off."

150 AUTOS BURNED IN N. Y. GARAGE FIRE

New York, May 7.—Fire today destroyed a garage which covered a square block in the Bronx, ruined 150 motor cars and caused a dozen gasoline explosions which rocked the neighborhood. Sparks started fires on nearby roofs and made it necessary for police to order temporary evacuation of a number of nearby tenements.

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"A Blessing to Suffering Women," Writes One

Louisville, Illinois.—"I certainly thank you for the great benefit I have received from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I first learned about it from my stepmother who got so much help from it. Several years ago I took it for inward weakness and since then I have taken it during the Change of Life and it has been a great help to me. It certainly is a blessing to suffering women and I take pleasure in recommending it. My health has been better this summer than it has been for five years. I am now able to do all my work and have canned 340 quarts of fruit and vegetables this summer."—Mrs. KATE McPEAK, Louisville, Illinois.

Wants Letter Used As Proof

Frankford, Pennsylvania.—"I am sure if women who suffer through the Change of Life as I have, with hot flashes, nervousness and other weaknesses, would give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial they would be benefited as I was. My nerves were so bad that every little noise made me jump, but now I am not bothered that way at all. My husband says he really hated to look at me I looked so miserable. I hope you will use this letter as proof of the help the Vegetable Compound is giving me."—Mrs. ABBIE HARVEY, 5701 Leonard St., Frankford, Pa.

Forced To Remain in Bed

Carlisle, Illinois.—"During the Change of Life I suffered with severe nervousness and with disturbances of the entire system. These continued probably two years before I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I could do none of my work and was not always able to be up. For ten days at a time I was forced to remain in bed with my hips propped higher than my head and the pains were terrible. The doctor helped some but each time I was forced to go over the same suffering. I had taken the Vegetable Compound in 1910 after my twins were born and it had helped me so I decided to try it again. I became better and gained in strength. I have taken it for about three years now but not steadily. I am able to do my housework but I avoid all heavy lifting and washing and ironing as I know I am not strong enough yet. I give the Vegetable Compound to my daughters and recommend it to my friends."—Mrs. LOUISA B. BRAND, 450 Fairfax Street, Carlyle, Ill

In a recent country-wide canvass of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, over 100,000 replies were received and 98 out of every 100 reported they had been benefited by its use. For sale by druggists everywhere.

ASK SPECIAL TOWN MEET IN BROOKLINE

The Brookline Planning Board has asked the Selectmen to call a special town meeting to act on further recommendations that they make relative to adopting additional single family residence districts in the town.

The town officials gave a public hearing last week, at which townspeople were heard in connection with changes asked in five districts, and in two of these districts the board has recommended classifying the districts into single family districts, while in two districts where petitions were filed will restore present one-family districts to two-family districts and one other district sought to be classified in a single district, the Planning Board did not recommend any change.

$500,000 HANGS ON WHICH MAN DIED FIRST

Son and Grandson of Vigilantes' Captain Expire on Opposite Sides of World

New York, May 7 (A.P.).—New York attorneys today were working on a case in which the disposition of a $500,000 estate depends upon which of two men, who met death on opposite sides of the globe at almost the same hour was the first to die.

The estate is that of the late Captain Coleman of the San Francisco Vigilantes of Argonaut days. His heirs were a son, Robert Louis Coleman, San Francisco financier, and a grandson, William T. Coleman of Monrovia, Cal.

The son, with George B. De Long, New York broker, was slain by highwaymen in Albania last April 6 while on a tour of the world. On that date the grandson died at his home in California.

How the $500,000 estate shall be divided and whether descendants of the son or grandson shall receive the major share depends upon which of the twain died first.

John F. Bowie, an attorney of this city, has been requested to learn the hour and minute when Robert Louis Coleman and his companion were slain on the Tirana-Scutari highway in Albania.

Cabled press dispatches, which thus far have been Mr. Bowie's only source of information, placed the hour at about 10 a. m., April 6, Albanian time. William T. Coleman was reported to have died at 1 a. m., April 6, San Francisco time.

Mr. Bowie will establish communication with American news correspondents in Albania and with public officials.

COOLIDGE ASKS LEADERS TO SHOW SPEED

Confers With Republicans in Effort to Push Through Important Legislation

Washington, May 7.—Aroused by the threat of Democrats and insurgent Republicans to hold Congress in session during the national political conventions in June, President Coolidge and Republican organization leaders in the Senate and House today prepared for an aggressive effort to clear the Congressional calendars of important legislation.

The program in general, and means of speeding up action, was discussed by the President with Republican leaders of the House at a breakfast conference and later with Senator Lodge, the Republican Senate leader, and Chairman Smoot of the Senate Finance Committee.

The President went over with the Republican House leaders the legislative situation in that body in detail, including legislation to afford farm relief.

The House leaders attending the conference included Speaker Gillett, Representative Longworth of Ohio, the floor leader; Chairman Snell of the Rules Committee, Representative Begg of Ohio, Chairman Green of the Ways and Means Committee, Chairman Madden of the Appropriations Committee and members of the Republican Steering Committee.

Senator Borah also was called into their conference, which had to do primarily with the saatus of financial measures, including the tax bill and the Bursum pension measure vetoed last week.

The House leaders in their talk with the President suggested June 7, the Saturday before the opening of the Republican convention at Cleveland, as the adjournment date for Congress.

On the Socialist ticket Eugene V. Debs won all votes, as did Charles H. Randell on the Prohibition ticket.

TRAPPERS TESTIFY IN HOUGH FUR TRIAL

New Haven, May 7.—More fur trappers from distant states were expected to testify today at the trial of Irving R. Hough and the Irving R. Hough Fur Company of Meriden, Ct., charged with using the mails to defraud, in the Federal court here, before Judge Harland B. Howe of Vermont and a jury.

Thirty of the numerous witnesses summoned testified that they had sent furs to the Hough company, for which in some cases, they declared, they had received little more than enough to pay the transportation charges.

Among the witnesses were several from Pennsylvania, New Hampshire, Maine and Halifax, N. S. Many from the South and West were waiting to give their testimony today.

Oklahoma for McAdoo

Oklahoma City, Okla., May 7.—Oklahoma Democrats in convention here indorsed the presidential candidacy of W. G. McAdoo, but declined to instruct its 20 national delegates to support any particular candidate. This action represented a compromise between the two factions favoring any opposing a McAdoo-instructed delegation.

CAN'T BEAT "TIZ" WHEN FEET HURT

Just take your shoes off and then put those weary, shoe-crinkled, aching, burning, corn-pestered, bunion-tortured feet of yours in a "Tiz" bath. Your toes will wriggle with joy; they'll look up at you and almost talk and then they'll take another dive in that "Tiz."

When your feet feel like lumps of lead—all tired out—just try "Tiz." It's grand—it's glorious. Your feet will dance with joy; also you will find all pain gone from corns, callouses and bunions.

There's nothing like "Tiz." It's the only remedy that draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up your feet and cause foot torture.

A few cents buys a box of "Tiz" at any drug or department store—don't wait. Ah! how glad your feet get; how comfortable your shoes feel.

NEW YORKER TRIES "WILD WEST STUNT"

New York, May 7.—A Wild West holdup came to grief early today when Thomas Meyers, would-be bandit, according to the police, displayed more enthusiasm than caution.

Meyers dashed into an upper Third avenue restaurant early today, held up the occupants at revolver's point, took $15 from the cash register, fired a shot, cowboy fashion, into the floor and raced to the street.

Myers was arrested, charged with felonious assault and carrying a weapon. The shot he fired into the floor of the restaurant hit the proprietor in the heel.

Arthur Hunter's "Parisienne Steppers" continue their merry entertainment at Healy's, where good food, dancing and cabaret numbers of rare excellence make it possible to fill an evening with gayety. Another engaging feature is Anita La Pierre, a singer of attainments. If your inclination takes you to the dance floor the Manhattan Society Orchestra will furnish just the kind of music you cannot resist. Healy's has moved to the front as a cabaret center and after-theatre parties are keeping the dining room filled.

TWO GUNMEN IN HOME HOLDUP

Ring Dorchester Man's Door-bell; Rob Him When He Responds

Police in the Dorchester section of Boston are on the lookout for the two young gunmen who held up Charles A. Richards at the door of his home, No. 38 Vesta road, and relieved him of his gold watch and $30 in cash.

Because of the darkness Mr. Richards is unable to give a detailed description of the robbers. He believes, however, that they are from nineteen to twenty-two years old.

Richards was alone in the library at 10 o'clock, expecting a call from friends, when the rear door-bell rang and he hurried down stairs and opened the door.

"Come right in," he said, and the answer was "Stick 'em up!"

"Yes," said another youthful voice, "Stick 'em up and keep 'em up, until we tell you you can drop 'em."

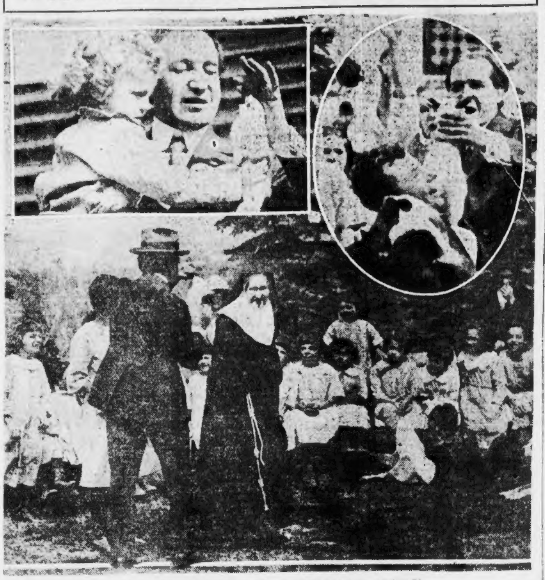
Observing that two revolvers were pointed straight at his heart, Richards threw up his hands.

It was all over within two minutes. First, they took his watch, and then they found his roll. Richards scarcely had recovered from his first shock when the robbers were gone.

P. O. Receipts Increase

Washington, May 7.—Boston gained $92,583.49 in postal receipts during the month of April, compared with the same month last year.

THURSTON MAKES KIDDIES HAPPY



DOING TRICKS AT CATHOLIC HOME

Thurston, the magician, mystifying the little inmates of the Home for Italian Children in Centre street, Jamaica Plain. Sister Superior Mary Valentina is enjoying his magic as much as her little charges. Upper left, this youngster at thee Home for Destitute Catholic Children would not believe the rabbit was real till Thurston allowed him to feel the animal. Upper right, producing a goose from under the coat of the janitor at the Italian home to the astonishment of the janitor as well as the kiddies.

Two hundred kiddies in the Home for Destitute Catholic Children, Harrison avenue, and in the Home for Italian Children, Centre street, Jamaica Plain, were made super-happy when Howard Thurston, world famous magician, entertained them with all sorts of magic stunts.

Thurston went to these two institutions through special arrangement with the Boston American. Today the good Sisters have their hands full as nearly every one of their charges is trying to imitate Thurston, who is playing a month's engagement at the Selwyn Theatre.

KIDDIES POP-EYED

And if you ask the kiddies whether they'd rather be President of the United States or Thurston, the magician, it's a safe bet the latter would get all the votes.

Thurston's first visit was at the Home for Italian Children in Jamaica Plain. Because of the mild weather the little girl residents were seated on the rear lawn while the King of Magic entertained.

Sister Superior Mary Valentina and her assistants enjoyed the fun fully as much as did their little charges. So also did Caesar Gironi, man-of-all-work, from under whose coat Thurston took a big white goose, to the amazement of both Caesar and the youthful onlookers.

TO VISIT MORE HOMES.

And when the great magician found a little black and white bunny under the collar of Gilda Marserella the eyes of the other youngsters nearly popped from their heads.

It was the same with the 150 children who assembled in the hall of the Home for Destitute Catholic Children on Harrison avenue. Thurston left the children in ecstacy.

William Driscoll and thirteen-year-old Charles Wilbur helped Thurston in his stunts at the Harrison Avenue Home.

Through special arrangement with the Boston American, Thurston will entertain at St. Vincent's Orphan Asylum, South End, tomorrow, at the Working Boys' Home, Newton Highlands, on Friday, and at the Children's Hospital next Monday.

300,000 MINERS LOCKED OUT IN RUHR VALLEY

200,000 Metal Workers May Be Involved Over 8-Hour Dispute in Germany

Berlin, May 7 (A.P.).—The lockout declared against the miners in the Ruhr valley, which is estimated to have made 300,000 men idle was extended today to Saxony because of the refusal of the workers in the Chemnitz and Zwickau districts to work more than eight hours.

Refusal of the Ruhr valley miners to accept a working day of more than seven hours underground and eight hours on the surface was the cause of a lockout there.

It is predicted that 200,000 metal workers in the Ruhr region will be involved by tomorrow. The occupation authorities have promised strict neutrality.

Lift Out Your Corns

ICE-MINT
THE NEW DISCOVERY ENDS ALL
Foot Troubles

This new discovery, made from a Japanese product, is certainly a wonder the way it draws out inflammation from a pair of swollen, burning, aching feet. It takes the soreness right out, then the corn or callous shrivels and lifts off.

Hard corns, soft corns or corns between the toes, just shrivel up and lift off so easy. It is wonderful. Just think! Not one bit of pain while applying Ice-mint or afterwards. It doesn't even irritate the surrounding skin.

You will never have to cut a corn again and run the risk of blood poison. Say good-by to your old corn salve, plasters and bundling tape for that pet corn of yours is sure to be a "goner" if it ever feels the magic touch of Ice-mint.

It imparts such a delightful, soothing, cooling feeling to the feet that you will sigh with relief.

Ice-mint is the real Japanese secret for fine, healthy little feet. It prevents foot odors and keeps them sweet and comfortable. It is greatly appreciated by women who wear high heel shoes.

Just ask in any drug store for a little Ice-mint and give your poor, suffering, tired, swollen feet the treat of their lives. It costs little and there is nothing better.

When Love Destroys

''Carlin could see in my eyes that their doom was sealed. Fool!'' he cried, his face as white as death. ''You're taking us to certain destruction. If it's money you want—But at that instant . . . . .''

AS long as he lives, asleep or awake, in sunshine or in darkness, that mad drive of death along the quarry road will remain like a brand burned on his memory.

Never will he forget the shriek of craven fear torn from the throat of the destroyer of his home as the car, plunging and careening like some frenzied beast, hurtled toward the deep quarry's unprotected brink. Always he will see in the eyes of the beautiful, faithless woman he had once called wife, the terror of a doom she knew was sealed.

Little had she realized—his once-beloved Annette, that a dinner of herbs where true, pure love is, is better than the richest banquet paid for in sin. In her ignorance of the laws of life, of the terrible penalty exacted of those who tread the paths of wrong—she went her way blithely, blindly—and like thousands of others courted destruction to her soul.

Untaught in the smooth ways of those human vultures who prey upon the innocence and ignorance of womankind—she seized upon the promises of luxury and pleasure, only to find the thing she had grasped —but read the story.

"When a Man Loves," in True Story Magazine for June, is a man's story of a girl whose inexperience and ignorance and love of gaiety brought tragedy of the most dramatic sort. Like every other story in True Story Magazine, it hammers home in a vivid, unforgettable way, the truth about the world, its people, its problems, which all of us have to face and solve.

By exposing the temptations, dangers and pitfalls that beset the feet of men and women on the pathway of life True Story fills a vital need not met by any other magazine. By telling the truth fearlessly and honestly, it has furthered, and will continue to further the health, happiness and moral progress of millions of lives.

No matter who you are, where you live, or how little or how much you think you know about life, you will find True Story Magazine a rich storehouse of dramatized wisdom, taken directly from the seething whirlpool of life itself. And you can't afford to be without it These stories are a source of romantic delight and are an inspiration and encouragement to those who have fallen, as well as to all others. It is a tremendous power of moral uplift and good.

Other Startling Stories From Life

Here are Just a Few of the Unusual Features in the June Issue of True Story Magazine

"A Question of Morals"—Reared in the narrow, restricted atmosphere of a small town in New England, she was swept off her feet by the sudden, passionate love-making of the fascinating stranger. Within a week they were engaged; in less than two months, married; after which they went to live in New York. New friends were made. Parties became the thing—parties with poker, beer and cigarettes. She tried to hold aloof — to cling to her inborn sense of respectability—but her husband insisted that for business reasons they must "play the game." How "the girl who was too good" faced her problem, is one of the best true-life stories ever put in print.

"A Wife's Secret"—In every first year of married life there is a crucial period—or a hundred of them. When she married Jim, everything was rosy, for a while—then the first perfect days began to fade. Business success, a swelling bank-account began to take their toll in the cottage of love. Had he only known to what extremes his neglect was driving her! What would have happened had he learned the truth?

"Infatuation"—At forty-five he played with love like a little boy chasing a butterfly. He little realized that toying with the affections of his daughter's chum was like drinking from a poisoned cup. In his reckless pursuit of romance, he little dreamed how bitter the final result of his adventure was to be. If you think that love is a thing to be played with at any age in life, read this gripping story of a man who thought he was a hero, only to learn that he was a fool.

"The Other Woman"—What is a sober, ambitious man to do with a frivolous, extravagant, pleasure-mad wife whose one thought is to have a "ripping glorious time?" Can he be blamed if he drifts away from her when a sweet, sensible, home-loving girl enters his life? Such was the problem faced by the young man who tells this story. How he attempted to solve it is a true drama of the heart that will move you to the depths.

"Having read in the April number of your True Story Magazine letters, both commending and condemning your publication, allow me to say that it is my opinion that one of the greatest needs of this complex age, an age in which young girls are taking their places in the business world along the side of experienced and worldly wise men who consider them legitimate prey, and when their inexperience in regard to immoral practices cause them to often go blindly into the traps set by such men, is advice and information from those who have had experience. True Story furnishes this information and advice.

"If one is walking through a forest when traps have been set to catch wild animals it is much easier to avoid these traps if their location is known. I personally know of several girls whose lives have been made sorrowful, if not wrecked, because they were not prepared to meet the temptations they were forced to encounter.

"The wail 'If I had only known' goes up day by day all over this land of ours. If we had not seen so great a change in our economical institutions during recent years there would perhaps not be so great a need for magazines like yours in this country. In recent years we have changed from a people whose women are kept safeguarded at home to a people who send our women in the marts of trade, covering every activity. Our daughters, young and inexperienced, become stenographers who are often alone behind closed doors with their employers. Therefore, it behooves them to know something of life as it really is.

"I wish you and your publication every success and an ever widening scope of influence."

Mrs. J. W. ALLEN,
[illegible] Grant St., Atlanta, Ga.

"The Great Big Fool"—When Jim married Mary, they said he was just an unsuspecting, easy-going, good-natured fool — blinded by her vivacious spirit, her wonderful smile, the youthful beauty of her face and figure. They didn't expect him to believe it when they told him she was leading a double life. Even when she left him, he still refused to besmirch her with even a thought of wrong. But there was a mystery behind Jim's faith in Mary that will startle you when you read the amazing disclosure. That "truth is stranger than fiction" was never more truly proved than in this true-life narrative.

A Magazine With A Mission

The splendid vision and high constructive purpose of Bernarr Macfadden, founder and publisher of True Story is seen and felt in every page of this remarkable magazine of true-life narratives.

Right from the start, the one thought in the mind of its publisher has been to destroy the power of evil that feeds on ignorance and innocence. By turning the cold white light of truth on the countless problems that confront men and women, boys and girls, everywhere, he has not only brought inspiration and encouragement to those in darkness who are struggling upward toward the light, but he has saved thousands from the ruin and despair that ignorance of the laws of life often brings.

The astounding growth in circulation of True Story Magazine is indisputable evidence of the success of Bernarr Macfadden in his great work. FANS WONDER HOW LONG SOX WILL CONTINUE WIN STREAK

SOX GOING AT FAST PACE

By NICK FLATLEY

Lee Fohl, manager of the Red Sox, is somewhat jubilant these days, and with plenty of cause. His athletes have won six games in a row, and are hitting the ball so hard that they will need a new supply of bats in a week or so. Lee isn't bothered at all about the impeding western invasion.

"While the boys are knocking in eight or nine runs a day," he muses, "we should worry about what clubs are coming here."

Oscar Fuhr

Which is the cold, hard truth. The ball games the past two days at the Fenway haven't been smooth, exciting exhibitions. The most partisan fan would have to call them ragged. But the Sox have been bombarding flocks of runs off the bases, and profiting just as much in the averages as if they were playing tight, brilliant baseball.

Winning is THE thing, and the Sox have been doing it for the past six baseball days. They have the spirit now, and it will take a bunch of adversity to knock them back into the ruck.

The shrewd Mister Fohl has been conserving a bit with his two big pitching bets, Ehmke and Quinn. He chased Howard in to save the Monday game, but that little trick didn't give the blonde hero any more than a necessary day's exercise. Old John Quinn was in line to work today, but the chances were that somebody else would draw down the assignment.

The Senators just now aren't the greatest or most dangerous club in the world. The team hasn't started rolling for the boy manager, Stanley Harris. The pitchers are not going well, and things are generally all mussed up. When Walter Johnson takes the peak, the club will be a favorite. Otherwise, it's a rank short ender just now.

Mickey O'Neil

The Great Walter, who is off for another great year, was nominated to chuck this afternoon, and if anybody can stop the Sox surge, the same Potomac Peril is the bird. He has been breaking up hostile winning streaks for so many years that the present generation can't remember when he started.

He has had a little trouble with his arm in the last couple of campaigns, but not nearly as much as the opposition. And he generally emerges from a short rest—three or four days—with all the stuff any pitcher ever had.

Somebody must stop the Sox rush soon, and Walter looks like the greatest threat in the immediate future. The boys are hitting consistently now, and bunching blows when the time is ripe, and that sort of assault is hard to wreck.

In the big eighth inning yesterday, every man on the team scored one run, which is some kind of a record and proves that the athletes were stringing along unanimously in the matter of getting on. If the mauling continues, the western invasion should furnish a bunch of fun for the native cash customers.

STASIAK ALSO SMILES

STASIAK TELLS HOW HE WILL DEFEAT LEWIS

By STANLEY STASIAK,
(Polish wrestling champion and challenger of Strangler Lewis)

I shall be world's heavyweight wrestling champion after my finish mat bout, best two falls out of three, with Strangler Lewis, world's champion, which will be staged at the Boston Arena tomorrow night under the direction of the Old Howard management.

Opportunity is knocking at my door. I shall let this elusive creature enter.

I feel much like Jack Dempsey did on the eve of his bout with Jess Willard at Toledo four years ago last Fourth of July.

"After I knock out Willard," said Dempsey, "I shall be prepared to meet all-comers."

"But you haven't done that yet," somebody interjected.

"That's merely a matter of form," replied Jack. "Willard is getting along in years. I am young, at the crest of my fighting wave. I shall win."

The conditions are much the same as regards Lewis and myself. The champion is not as young as he used to be and has passed the top of his form. During the past year he has often resorted to rough house methods to win when he found the opposition was a little bit too tough for him.

STASIAK AS POWERFUL AS MOUNTAIN LION.

On the otherhand I am as powerful as a mountain lion. I also am young ambitious and every bit as courageous as Lewis.

I have had two ambitions in life, one to fight Jack Dempsey and the other to meet Lewis. For more than a year I devoted my attention to the ring game. I knocked out a flock of rivals, but finally decided to go bock to wrestling. I did this because I felt that wrestlers last longer than boxers.

For two years I have been working up a match with Lewis. I have battered down all opposition. I have conquered every man I have opposed.

I was discouraged for a time as Lewis persisted in refusing to meet me. The public finally forced the Strangler to enter a ring with me when it refused to patronize his matches against setups.

I was thrilled as I have never been before when more than 2,000 fans jammed Scenic Temple to see me in a public workout. I sure did try to give the fans action.

I first boxed with Professor McKetchum of Milwaukee, an expert in the manly art. During a mixup I let drive a right hand sock to the jaw which knocked the professor out. I'm sorry I did this, but, like Dempsey, I never could go easy with my sparring partners.

Dempsey knocks out the men who box with him, and I have the same habit. I don't think it does one any good to "pull" punches during a gym workout.

I later wrestled with Al Rizzo and Count Zarrynoff. The latter got a little bit rough and during a mixup I split open one of his eyes, the claret flowing rather freely.

I am in the best condition right now that I have been in at any time during my career as an athlete. I am prepared to step in and give Lewis the battle of his life.

The Strangler says he will defeat me with his famous headlock. I don't think he has a chance to accomplish this result. The headlock is a crushing hold, paralyzing the brain. It takes great power to apply it. Naturally the man putting on the headlock must be stronger than his opponent. This is how I shall stop it. I am stronger than Lewis and will break his hold.

I intend to be the aggressor. Lewis is slowing up and will tire more quickly than I will. I shall toss him around as much as possible, punish him whenever I can. The result will be that I shall be fresh and battling grimly when the champion is tired.

B. C. SUFFERS FIRST LOSS OF YEAR

Little Springfield College defeated the Eagles by a score of 8 to 3 at Alumni Field. The defeat was the first in eight starts for B. C., and was partly due to the hitting slump into which the B. C. squad has fallen.

The fielding of the Eagles was ragged, six errors being chalked against them. Carroll, who pitched seven innings, allowed nine hits, and his failure to cover first base in that inning on Shanks' single accounted for a pair of runs. A error by Cronin allowed two more runs to sneak over the plate.

Springfield christened the game in the first when a double, three singles and an error brought in two counters. B. C. was unable to score until the fourth, when a homer by Cronin brought in Whalen ahead of him. Another run in the fifth ended the Eagle's weak attempt to win.

Darling and Whalen each got a pair of bingles, but their hits came in the wrong time. B. C. had chances in both the seventh and eighth to tie if not to turn the score, but weakened in the pinches.

CONN. AGGIES PLAY TUFTS AT OVAL

The Conn. Aggies invade Tufts Oval today to clash with a battered Tufts team.

Fred Lake

Although Tufts rules a big favorite over the Nutmeg Staters, the invaders are represented by a flashy nine that should give a good account of themselves. Both teams are evenly matchd as far as batting power goes, but the Medfordites outdistance their opponents in fielding.

Bob Hunter, who turned back Bates last week by masterful pitching, will do the honors for the Brown and Blue. With Hunter pitching in his usual form, Tufts should gain the verdict over the Aggies.

Henry Bagley, former freshman backstop, will start the contest behind the bat. The Tufts infield assignments will be held down by Harold McDonnell, Roger Atherton, Joe Mahoney and Tom Glennon. Mike Crowley, Joe Kenneally and Carl Etelman are slated to start in the outfield.

HUB CHECKER CHAMP, EXHAUSTED, QUITS

New York, May 7. — Exhausted from playing checkers, W. C. Waterhouse of Boston, champion of Massachusetts, was compelled to withdraw from the national tournament. He was unable to answer the call for the third prize round and defaulted to H. O. Newcomb of Middlefield, O. Ray Gould of Brooklyn won from L. M. Lewis of Indianapolis and John F. Horr of Buffalo defeated S. S. Bell of Boston.

ABBOT WORSTED DEFEATS LAWRENCE

Graniteville, May 7.—The Abbot Worsted Company team opened the Boston Twilight League season here by defeating the Lawrence Independents, 3 to 2. A very large crowd was present. J. C. Abbot pitched the first ball with Manager McCarthy behind the bat. Music was furnished by the Abbot band. Davidson and Donovan both pitched good ball with big Al having the edge. Jim Thorpe proved to be a big attraction.

American Wins Fight for Earlier Baseball

The Boston American has won its fight for earlier baseball. President Quinn of the Red Sox has just announced that all games at Fenway Park will start at 3 o'clock throughout the season.

It was at the suggestion of this newspaper that the experiment of early baseball was tried out here and it has proved so successful that the new Boston club owner has decided to make 3 o'clock baseball a permanent thing.

BELLEVUE CLUB WINS THIRD STRAIGHT

The Bellevue Club of the Boston Four Ball League still continues to set the pace to nine others in the association as a result of yesterday's matches at the several Boston courses. Their third match was won at Belmont's expense, by the score of 7 to 5, this being their third win in a row.

The outstanding feature of the day without doubt was the fact that Bellevue registered and was playing away from home. The other winners in each instance were on their own familiar layouts.

Charlie Skehens, from his play at Oakley, seems in for a large year. His card with one approximation yesterday was 76. Playing with Richards, the combination pulled a best ball of 68.

The Brae Burn Club have announced that an open mixed foursome will be staged at their grounds on Wednesday, May 14. Starting time may be obtained from now on. This is the first tournament of this sort this season.

Today the women's team matches will be continued at the various Greater Boston courses. It is also open house day at Woodland. In other words, practise for the open tournament on Thursday and Friday is in order.

Indications point to a record entry at this spot.

The Wollaston Golf Club's annual meeting takes place at Young's Hotel today at 12 o'clock. In the evening at the club house the annual dinner will be held.

RYDER AND SEEBACK TO PLAY FOR TITLE

A three cushion billiard match of unusual interest will be played on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings of this week with the New England title at stake. The challenger in this case is Charles Ryder of New Bedford, originator of the Five and One-half System of billiards, teacher of the game and one of the best in this section of the country. He will play the champion, Charles Seeback at the State Theatre Club 50 points each evening. Both parties have also posted a large sum as a side bet.

FREE SWIMMING COURSE AT Y. M. C. A.

Under direction of Robert Muir, the Huntington avenue branch of the Y. M. C. A. has opened a free learn-to-swim week for boys under eighteen years of age. Last week a free swimming campaign for men was conducted and a large number were taught to be at home in the water, including many members of the Boston police department. This week the youngsters are to have their innings, and a large number of them will be taught how to enjoy themselves in the water, as well as to cope with emergencies that often arise.

TUFTS FRESHMEN HAVE TWO GAMES

Tufts freshman nine will play two games this week. Wentworth Institute will entertain the Brown and Blue yearlings tomorrow, while Allen Chalmers and the Medford cubs cross bats on Saturday.

How Old Blue Shirt Came Into Its Own

By GILL

(Inspired by Bob Murray's Blue Shirt.)

TIME was when only railroad engineers and firemen wore blue shirts. It was distinctive of their class. When Tom, Dick or Harry saw a man walking along the street with a blue shirt on that man was immediately labeled a railroad man. Didn't matter what the rest of his outfit consisted of. It could be evening clothes or overalls. He was a railroad man just the same.

Times have changed. Everyone wears them now. It's the style. But does anyone know where the first blue shirt craze started? Probably not. Well, we'll let you in on it.

got a clean shirt, Bill?
naw. not even clean enough for Pittsburg

Back in 1917 the Braves trained in Miami, Fla. On the way back to Boston they joined hands with the Yankees at Macon, Ga., and barnstormed North for two weeks. During that time they lived almost exclusively in a Pullman car. Only their meals were eaten off the train and those hurriedly after [illegible] hard game. It became monotonous [illegible] three or four days of it was enough. The boys began to think that they were dirty. Every collar they put on they [illegible] soiled. Finally even [illegible] change [illegible] feeling. They [illegible]

In Montgomery, Ala., Lefty Allen, a southpaw, "Rabbit" Maranville and several others conceived the idea of wearing blue shirts. One by one the players fell into line until everyone was wearing them. Even the head brains of the [illegible]

the blue braves
Don't think you guys are firemen because you're living in a Pullman.
Boss Stallings

George Stallings, who was then managing the club, didn't like the idea at all. He didn't say anything but [illegible] expression was enough. George is somewhat of a hard taskmaster but [illegible] was never harder than during that trip. He rode the boys unmercifully.

They managed to stick it out, however, and wore blue shirts until they reached what they termed civilization at Baltimore.

Jack Conway Picks Shade to Win Over Ratner

Tonight's tussle will be a contest of skill against strength. We are picking Shade to win on points, as his powerful socks are sure to count heavily.

However, there is a possibility that Ratner may, by his marvellous skill, outbox Shade and win the decision.

MAKING THE MAYOR LOOK GOOD

IN view of the many misleading and malicious stories which have been sent broadcast through the daily press relative to my ability as a Ruth rival, I feel a few words in my own behalf are in order to set me right in the eyes of the great baseball world.

My batting stunt at the Dorchester Twilight opening against the slants of the Mayor with Councillor Gilbody catching was no real test of my ability as a batter.

I did not look for the raft of publicity that followed and being on home territory, I wanted to treat His Honor with all due respect and send him away with a smile.

As for Mr. Gilbody, he's almost as good a catcher as he is a politician (that's a boost), but I can't see why he should signal for an "in an' outer" and double-cross an old rooter.

Then again—this is no alibi—the Mayor has been practicing all season—apparently with this one game in view, and if his so-called great victory gives him any more glory than he already has, he is welcome to it.

I will have my little inning on Friday night when the Neponset Town Team starts the ball rolling.

Watch out, Mr. Mayor.

and the personal guarantee of William Randolph Hearst

WHETHER a business is essential or not is always a fundamental consideration in appraising the safety of its securities.

After great catastrophes, newspapers in the localities affected are among the first to recover. People must have the news. Merchants and manufacturers must advertise to carry on business, even when goods are hard to sell.

After they are well established, magazines and newspapers gain a momentum which carries them through good years and bad, toward greater development. The record of well known publications, for years back, proves the truth of this. For example,

GOOD HOUSEKEEPING: From 1911 to 1924 this magazine more than tripled in circulation; and its advertising revenue increased from about $283,000 to a return now at the rate of about $6,400,000 annually.

COSMOPOLITAN: This magazine tripled its circulation since 1905; and its advertising revenue increased during that period from about $174,000 to a return now running at approximately $2,500,000 annually.

HARPER'S BAZAR: This magazine has grown in circulation since 191[illegible] from [illegible],000 to 94,455, although the cost per copy has increased from 15c to 50c. Its advertising revenue increased during the eleven year period from about $30,000 to a revenue at present at the rate of about $1,400,000 annually.

MOTOR: The circulation of this magazine is now nearly four times the 1903 figure; and its advertising revenue is about twenty-five times greater.

MOTOR BOATING: Has increased nearly three times its circulation since 1909; and its advertising revenue is over twenty times greater.

Likewise, these five newspapers

—owned, in addition to the above magazines, by Hearst Publications, Inc., have grown largely in circulation over the various periods during which they have been under Hearst ownership and management, until their combined revenue today, from advertising and circulation, is nearly $23,000,000 annually.

Security and Earnings

The value of these solid, thriving magazines and newspapers, conservatively estimated at $40,000,000, with an earning power of more than $6,000,000 net for 1923, and average net earnings in excess of $5,000,000 for the past three years, represents the security behind the new issue of Hearst Publications, Inc., First (Closed) Mortgage and Collateral Trust 6½% Serial Gold Bonds. Payment of principal and interest unconditionally guaranteed by Mr. William Randolph Hearst.

Serial maturities are available, due each year from 1925 to 1936. Denominations, $1,000, $500 and $100. Price 100 and interest, yielding 6½%.

We believe these bonds combine to an unusual degree the many elements of a desirable investment.

They are secured by a successful essential business worth many times the bond issue and earning many times the bond interest annually.

The yield is attractive.

THREE TYPES OF COILS MAY BE USED

Tube Type, Spider Web or Honeycomb Used in the American Superflex

By M. A. SIMMONS.

There are three types of coils that may be used on the American Super Amplidyne-Neutro-Reflex.

This is one less coil than there are names for the set, but by this time you are probably well enough acquainted with the set to call it the Superflex.

For all coils described use either No. 22 s.c.c. or No. 24 d.c.c. wire.

The first type of coils is like that used in the old Super. If you have any of these coils on hand, you will not have to buy anything to make the new coils for the Superflex. Simply rewind your old coils following the directions given in coil specifications.

If you are going to make new coils procure tubing of the following dimensions: One piece three inches long with an outside diameter of two and three-quarters inches and one piece three inches long and three inches in diameter.

On the smaller, one-half inch from the end, start your winding of six turns. Wind so they cover one-half inch. The last turn that you put on will then be one inch from the end of the tubing.

On the three-inch diameter tubing, start one-half inch from the end and wind 70 turns close. The winding should end one-half inch from the other end.

Secure all ends of wire so that it will not slip off.

Do not start windings directly opposite the same points. Note on drawings that the primary winding starts to the left of the centre line of coil and ends up to the right of the centre. The secondary coil then starts to the right of the centre and ends up to the left of the centre. This prevents the loops of wire which go through the tubing from touching each other.

The second coil is made exactly the same, except that the primary has more turns in the same amount of space. You can fasten the ends of the primary to small binding posts mounted on the coil if you wish.

The ends of the secondary leads go directly to the condenser binding posts so you will not need any on the coils themselves.

Various other forms of coils may be used, but in general you will have to determine for yourself the exact number of secondary turns to use to cover the waveband.

For spider-web type, wind ten turns next to the centre for the primary winding of No. 1 coil unit. Then wind the secondary turns, which will vary from forty-five to seventy, depending on the size of the form.

A Crosley Varind coil was used in one experiment and worked remarkably well. The movable Primary was taken off and thrown away. The remaining coil has four loop taps. The tap nearest to the centre was cut open and the start of coil (inside end) and one end of tap was used for the primary. The other end of tap and the outside end of coil was used for secondary, but about ten turns had to be unwound from the coil so that it would get down to the low end of the waveband.

For unit No. 2 there should be eighteen turns instead of ten for the primary.

These coils make nice units, as they do not have to be tipped on an angle, but can be mounted on a short post at back of condenser with the flat side of coil facing the end plate of condenser.

This type is very easy to make and they are very compact. Procure two seventy-five-turn unmounted type honeycomb coils. The Giblin Remler type will not do, as they are wound in such a way that it makes it difficult to handle. The Coto coil or De Forest unmounted type should be used.

Unwind ten turns from each coil and re-secure ends. Wind a strip of oiled paper or empire cloth over the coil. Have it the same width as the coil.

For coil No. 1 unit, wind on ten turns so that it will cover the entire width. Don't wind with honeycomb fashion, but wind as though you were winding on a flat piece of tubing.

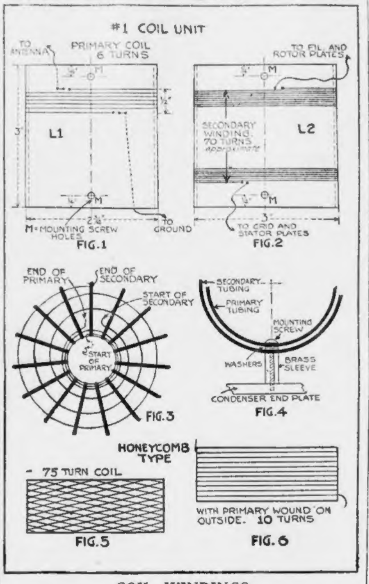
Secure the ends with sealing wax or tape. Be sure that you wind in the same direction as honeycomb coil.

For coil No. 2 wind on 22 turns, filling the entire width of coil. You will just about make it without slipping off the sides. Fasten these coils with the hole side of coils facing the end plates of condenser.

We prefer this type of coil or the spider web form, as they are extremely efficient. No dialectric material is used to support the coil windings itself. They are, however, somewhat more difficult to handle.

Tomorrow we will describe how to mount these coils on the backs of the condensers.

THIS WILL HELP YOU TO MAKE THE COUPLERS



COIL WINDINGS

Three different kinds of coils may be used to make the coils. Figure 1, 2 and 4 are the old conventional style. The windings shown are for No. 1 coil (see hookup published Monday). No. 2 coil is exactly like No. 1 except that the primary (Fig 1 above) is wound with twenty turns to fill one-half inch of space.

Fig. 3 is a schematic drawing of the spider-web type coil wound. Both coils are wound in same direction.

Fig. 5 shows how a 75-turn honeycomb coil, and Fig. 6 shows it with ten turns around the periphery.

Radio Receiving Conditions Tonight

Radio fans tonight ought to find reception good from stations broadcasting in the Eastern and Middle Western sections of the country. Because of a high barometric pressure area in Western sections, however, reception probably will be poor from stations in the West.

Radio Queries

While listening on the American Super Sunday night I heard a distant station broadcasting church services. They signed off at 9:16 their time, which was 11:16 our time. Could you tell me what station it was?
W. F. E.

Perhaps another listener can help. In asking for identification of stations, it helps to give the approximate wavelength.

I removed the two .005 mfd. condensers from my American Super and could get many more stations, KWY being the farthest and the highest wave. The set was good and clear before removing the condensers, but with them could get no distance.
E. R. F.

Insert by-pass condensers of .00025 to .005 mfd in place of the two .005's. Probably .0005 will hit it best. This should clear up the music. Wind a few more turns on secondary to reach 546 meters.

Can you tell me what station had an organ recital just before WNAC started their Supper Dance Saturday?

Perhaps another listener can help.

1—How many loud speakers may be attached to the same set. I have an American Super? 2—I am about 500 feet from the Edison transfer power station, and I hear the generators through my loud speaker. Is there anything I can do to overcome this. 3—My B battery is 65 volts. Will that prevent me from getting greater distance. What should the reading of the B battery be when it is thrown away?

1—Theoretically there is no limit. 2—A wave trap will help to eliminate a good deal of this interference. 3—A low B battery may prevent you from getting some stations that you would get with more plate voltage, but in general the larger voltage gives greater volume rather than distance. The minimum voltage for disposal of batteries is a moot question. The best test is not one of actual voltage, according to battery experts, but results in actual use. If set becomes noisy or signals are weak as a result of the B batteries, it is time to change them no matter what the voltage.

RERADIATION SOLUTION IS UP TO BCL'S

"Mysterious Mr. Smith" Says They Must Learn How to Use Sets

The mysterious "Mr. Smith" bobbed up at WNAC Monday night and gave the BCL'S some illuminating pointers on the air trouble that their own sets cause by regenerative interference.

During his talk he gave a practical demonstration of how squeals occur and may be eliminated, using an oscillating set and loud speaker in front of the microphone.

"Smith" said in part:

"Probably the greatest bugaboo to date in the radio field is the reradiating receiving set. It is indeed hard to impress upon the people as a whole, why some sets will cause interference and some won't. There are two ways in which the reradiating evil can be wiped out.

"First, by educating the public about the operation, construction, and use of their receiving sets. Second, by slowly eliminating the use of offending types of receivers, through the medium of introducing a type of set which will not interfere, and will be as easy to build and operate as our sets of the past have been.

Inasmuch as such a set would take time to find universal favor, and people would still hesitate before discarding their old equipment, it is perhaps as well that we do all that is possible in the way of educational effort.

"The worst type of set for causing interference is the so-called 'flivver' set, making use of the super-regenerative principle. There is no way of eliminating interference caused by these sets, excepting to cease using them, because the minute you stop them from radiating into your antenna, they become insensitive, and are of no value in long distance reception.

"The second worst offender is the old single circuit type of receiver. This set consists of various combinations of apparatus, perhaps the most common being a variable condenser and a variocoupler. The variable condenser is placed in series with the antenna, and the outside of the variocoupler winding, while the inside of the coupler, or the rotor, as it is called, is connected in the plate circuit of the vacuum tube.

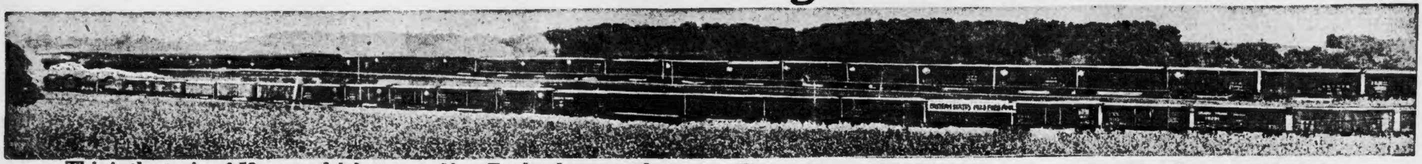
"SPEND THE SUMMER IN BEAUTIFUL NEW ENGLAND"
If every letter mailed from New England should carry some such message as this, either on the envelope or in the body of the letter. We have the finest Summer resort in the world and it is up to us to tell the world.

BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, MAY 7, 1924
BOSTON AMERICAN
LARGEST EVENING CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND

BRING THE MOTORISTS HERE, THEY'RE WORTH $100 EACH
Every Summer motorist is worth $100 to the community on his vacation visit. He buys gas, oil, souvenirs, food, lodging, entertainment. New England, with its romantic history and scenic beauty, is a motorist's heaven. Let's bring them East.

New England's Farmers Blaze the Path of Progress for Other New England Boosters



This is the train of 52 cars which runs to New England every other day loaded with feeds approved by New England's cow experts and fertilizer approved by the soil experts, destined for the use of 12,500 farmers of New England and distributed through 458 stations.

Go to the Ant, thou sluggard;
Consider her ways and be wise.
—Proverbs 6:6.

EVERY second day in the year a train of fifty-two cars runs half way across the continent at the bidding of the farmers of New England. You see a picture of this train above. To get it onto the page we had to cut the picture in two and reverse half of it. The train is a half mile long. Picture the biggest traffic proposition in New England—

Corn and oats from Illinois, flax from Minnesota, wheat from Kansas, salt from Michigan, cotton from the South, peanuts from Texas, lime from Indiana—

Men and acres; factories and mills; wagons and trucks; coolies and stevedores; steamships and trains—

Jute and hemp from around the world; sweet stuff from the cane brakes of Cuba; fertilizer in train loads; meal and oil and machinery—

College professors and experimental stations, scientists, Masters of Husbandry—

All are working for the farmers of New England, the farmers as a unit, 12,000 strong, buying as one man, studying as one man, distributing as one man and (this alone is in the future) selling as one man.

You who want to boom New England but fear to depart from the time honored traditions of your ancestors can learn a lot from the farmers of New England.

They have brought about an evolution. "All bound round with a woolen string," were they? They've cut the string. You wouldn't know the farmer of Way Down East today. The farmer is a Business Man. He is so good a Business Man that he makes a lot of Business Men look like Farmers.

Several weeks ago this weekly Boosters' page, in urging that the buyers and the vacationists be brought to Beautiful New England, told of the Spirit of Springfield. When Springfield lost her carriage horse industry and her races she went to Chicago and captured the dairy show. Now Springfield holds an annual exhibition that brings hundreds of thousands of visitors every year. Again we must go to Springfield to tell of an organization that is bringing the farmer of the East past the pitfalls that have closed banks, frozen capital, and carried poverty to the farmers of the middle Northwest.

Springfield is headquarters for the Eastern States Farmers' Exchange. Hampden county, Mass., is the shrine of this evolution in farm industry.

The Hampden men awakened to the situation facing our farms that is not dissimilar to the situation at present facing our factories.

They estimated that the average farmer was working 3,925 hours a year. The prevailing cost of farm labor was 30 cents an hour. The average income of the Massachusetts farmer was $1,393. If the farmer paid himself 30 cents an hour he would receive $1,177 a year. The average investment of a Massachusetts farm was $10,000. If the farmer paid himself at farm labor prices his yearly income would amount to just $216. He wasn't making 2 per cent. He could make more money with tax exempt bonds.

But the farmer was not a business man. He was a patriot. He was the world's producer. The greatest novel written in the past few years, "Growth of the Soil," by Knut Hamsen, won the Nobel $40,000 peace prize because it sang a saga to the nobility of the farmer.

Statistics told the Hampden men that the decade of 1910 to 20 had witnessed a falling off of 22 per cent. in Massachusetts farms; 29 per cent. in Connecticut; 24 per cent. in New Hampshire; 16 per cent. in Maine; 25 per cent in Rhode Island. Vermont had a questionable increase of 3 per cent., due to dairying, but the average decrease for New England was 19 per cent.

The farmer was at the mercy of the climate, ravishing crop and animal diseases, the railroads, the middlemen, the retailers. He was shot at by buyers and sellers. If such things went on much longer the farmer must perish.

The Hampden County Improvement League found that population had increased 85 per cent. since 1880, and farm acreage had dwindled 54 per cent.

This lagging of agricultural production was startling.

Story writers love to depict the old Yankee farmer as an obstinate and cantankerous person; one wedded to tradition, loyal to the methods of his father and slow to accept or adopt "new fangled ideas."

His land was his by inheritance—to do with as he pleased. It was the Jones place or the Smith place or the Brown place. It had been farmed along certain lines for years, and it would continue so while the property remained in the family. No other person and no organization would tell these free and independent citizens of New England how to conduct their business.

The total financial investment in the farms of Maine is $302,785,421, and the average investment is $6,278. The total investment of Vermont is $242,376,854. The average $8,336. New Hampshire total, $132,428,827—the average, $6,452; Massachusetts total, $341,228,440—the average $10,666; Connecticut total, $256,809,286—the average, $11,379; Rhode Island total, $390,007,399—average, $12,249. The grand total is $1,314,636,230, which means that the average investment in each place is $8,397.

The total average receipts from all sources, dairy, sheep, poultry, bees, and crops of Maine farms are $124,350,360; of Vermont, $78,450,885; New Hampshire, $36,978,197; Massachusetts, $85,336,221; Connecticut, $63,727,956; Rhode Island, $10,224,708. The New England total is $399,068,327.

The average net income of the Maine farmer is $1,910; Vermont, $2,022; New Hampshire, $1,130; Massachusetts, $1,393; Connecticut, $1,497; Rhode Island, $1.194. The average for New England is $1,605.

It is easily seen why the number of abandoned farms has increased in New England; why living costs are so high in New England; why New England agricultural production has been lagging so far behind the consumption of farm products; why, until 1920, more than 75 per cent. of New England's food requirements were imported from the outside at a cost of about half a billion dollars annually.

What was the answer?

These Hampden County men saw that platitudes would do nothing. "United we stand and divided we fall" had been employed time and time again and had failed; appeals to Yankee pride had been futile.

"We have a plan for co-operative buying," the Hampden County men told the farmers. "We believe it will save you ten dollars a ton on your mixed orders for dairy feed and for fertilizers."

The Exchange leaders drilled a company of Paul Reveres and sent them out to get the lay of the farming land in New England, and to carry the gospel of co-operative farmers. Field agents went to every farming district. They had no bonds or shares of stock to sell. They wanted no money down. If a farmer was interested, they took his order for his feed and fertilizer requirements.

They explained that it was the purpose of the Exchange to form a pool; to give a big order to a big concern, so that they might reap the benefit of wholesale buying prices and the discount allowed for cash payments.

They told the farmer there would be no charge for overhead expenses; there would be no costly warehouses; the warehouses would be the cars which made up the trainloads; there would be no distribution charges; the farmer would be obliged to go to the car at the distribution point in his locality and care for his own allotment.

These points were only in their minds then. There are 428 established now.

It was made plain to him, however, that he must pay cash. The Exchange did not propose to court failure by extending credit and accumulating debts.

A saving in costs, they made it plain to the farmer, was only a small part of the story. Better farming was an important part, and the most important part, for the dairy farmer, was better feed and the better care of his stock.

And that is why, they told him, they had diet lists for cows, prepared by the sixteen best experts on cow feeding in the country.

New England farm soil was impoverished and ill-kept. So they had the experts study the soil question and prepare what, in their opinion, was the fertilizer best adapted to enrich the New England farm lands.

That, in brief, was the original proposition.

It was in 1918 that these Paul Reveres went out and took orders for forty-two hundred and ninety tons valued at $197,287.

Last year they fared forth again and came back with orders for 97,536 tons valued at $4,651,508.

Picture in your mind the New England farmers buying their requirements and paying any old price asked six years ago, and then picture the contrast—a special train, half a mile long, rushing Eastward a thousand miles through the night and day; a huge mill in Peoria, Illinois, employing hundreds of men, with a million dollar equipment, and a score of other plants preparing the ingredients required by that mill to produce the thirty tons of feed mixture, every hour, necessary to make good contracts with the Eastern States Farmers' Exchange, acting as the purchasing agents of 12,000 New England farmers.

Every other working day of 1923 saw a trainload of commodities with an average wholesale value of $33,000, distributed about New England.

Each day of 1923 the membership of this organization increased by twenty-two new members.

As the volume of business has increased, the unit cost of handling has decreased.

The saving to the New England community is about ten million dollars.

The cow population of Maine is 175,425; Vermont, 290,122; New Hampshire, 95,997; Massachusetts, 147,331; Connecticut, 112,622; Rhode Island, 21,431—total 842,928.

That represents our source of milk supply. Nothing affects the health of a people so much as its milk.

The Eastern States Farmers' Exchange has called in conference, from time to time, sixteen of the best cow experts to be found in our Eastern agricultural colleges.

It has asked these experts, "What is the best food to set before the cows in order that they shall give the best milk?" "What is the best economy dairy feed; what is the best ration to fit dry cows for heavy production; what is the best 25 per cent. protein, high-grade, body-building feed for young stock?"

These formulae are not copyrighted because the association desires to leaven its business with unselfish patriotism, to let all farmers profit, whether members of the association or not.

No longer does the farmer member of this organization worry about the mortgage. He is saving enough so that he will be able to pay back farm loans in a short time, and burn the papers.

Here is the story of a farmer in Berkshire County. He had a herd of twenty-four good milk producers, and he was reckoned a successful farmer because he made a net profit of about $450 a year. Up to 1922 he bought his feed and fertilizer in retail lots, and, of course, paid the highest market price. In the Summer of that year, he ordered his Winter requirements for feed through the Exchange.

During the following Fall and Winter, twenty-five tons of feed were delivered to him at an average saving of $10 per ton under what he would have paid had he been buying his feed according to his usual custom.

This $250 represented an increase of 50 per cent. over his normal yearly profit.

What was done for this man can be done for every dairy farmer in the Eastern States, is the claim of the managers.

This organization is welded together by men from all sections of New England. From Vermont comes 40 per cent. of its membership; from Massachusetts, 25 per cent.; Connecticut, 12 per cent.; New Hampshire, 8 per cent.; Rhode Island, 3 per cent., and the remainder from Maine, Delaware, New York and Maryland.

The association asks only enough to pay its expenses, including a fair return upon its investment, and salaries to attract the best brains in co-operative marketing and farm advising.

The Exchange is managed and directed by the farmers. Farmers at the annual meeting dictate the policy. The doors have been opened wider than ever this year and the farm bureaus of every New England State have been brought into affiliation.

Like real Minute Men, this association has rescued a large element of the New England farm population from bondage. It is well, therefore, to give credit where it is due by publishing the names of the following men who are the back-bone and sinew of the Eastern States Farmers' Exchange.

Albert A. Dunklee, South Vernon, Vt., president.
S. McLean Buckingham, Watertown, Ct., vice-president.
Daniel Holland, E. Greenwich, R. I., vice-president.
Lawrence G. Dodge, W. Newbury, Mass., treasurer.
Howard W. Selby, Springfield, Mass., general manager; besides whom the following comprise the board of directors: Frank M. Abell, Lebanon, Ct.; A. Vail Allen, Fairhaven, Vt.; F. G. Arnold, Touisset, Mass.; Lorenzo E. Baer, Dover, N. H.; J. H. Bartlett, Orleans, Vt.; Robert P. Bass, Peterboro, N. H.; R. E. Burnett, Bethel, Vt.; John Chandler, Sterling Jct., Mass.; C. M. Conant, Winterport, Me.; W. V. Cosden, Dover, Del.; Stancliff Hale, So. Glastonbury, Ct.; E. W. Hazen, Haddam, Ct.; R. D. Hunter, W. Claremont, N. H.; A. B. Hough, Lebanon, N. H.; E. H. Jones, Waitsfield, Vt.; H. A. Moses, Springfield, Mass.; E. E. Page, E. Corinth, Me.; J. D. Reynolds, Middletown, Del.; H. D. Sharpe, Providence, R. I.; J. A. Sherwood, Long Hill, Ct.; F. E. Tatreau, Framingham, Mass.

There are thousands and thousands of letters to the Exchange from farmers all over New England which certify that, thanks to the service which the Exchange has rendered, they are saving money for the first time in their lives on farm production costs and making money for the first time from the products of their dairies.

"Great oaks from little acorns grow!"

Yes, indeed. But when one considers that there are more than 144,000 farmers in New England who have not cooperated with the Exchange, and that the needs of the 12,500 members required last year the every-other-day service of a trainload of fifty-two cars, one wonders at the immensity of the transportation problem alone which will face this Exchange when it reaches the ultimate of its membership.

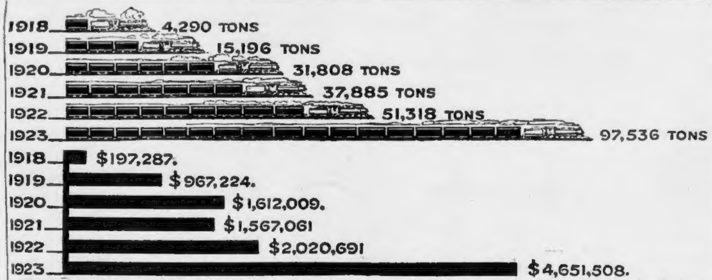


Figure the savings to farmers in buying feed for stocks and soil which this chart of the career of the Eastern States Farmers' Exchange evidences, at $10 per ton. New England has never seen a growth of business comparable with this result of co-operative buying in a favorable market. The upper section shows the marvelous growth of tonnage and the lower testifies to the almost unbelievable volume of business in farmers' supplies that has been worked up in six years. That's only half the story. The other half will be told when the system of co-operative selling has been given a trial. The insert below on the left shows how each farmer claims his order.

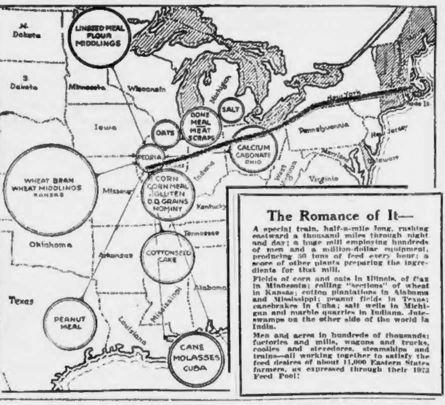

The Romance of It—

A special train, half-a-mile long, rushing eastward a thousand miles through night and day; a huge mill employing hundreds of men and a million-dollar equipment, producing 30 tons of feed every hour; a score of other plants preparing the ingredients for that mill.

Fields of corn and oats in Illinois, of flax in Minnesota; rolling "sections" of wheat in Kansas; cotton plantations in Alabama and Mississippi; peanut fields in Texas; canebrakes in Cuba; salt wells in Michigan and marble quarries in Indiana. Jute-swamps on the other side of the world in India.

Men and acres in hundreds of thousands; factories and mills, wagons and trucks, coolies and stevedores, steamships and trains—all working together to satisfy the feed desires of about 11,000 Eastern States farmers, as expressed through their 1923 Feed Pool!
